MANY DIE IN BIG GALE IN EUROPE

Eighty Belgian Villages Under Water; Germany, France and Austria Hit, Too

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—A severe gale which blew up in the English channel today played havoc with trans-channel shipping.

Two steamships caught in the gale were almost driven on the rocky coast, but escaped disaster under their own power after several rescue vessels, including a navy cruiser, had gone to their aid.

The Greek steamers Triton and Taxiarchis got into trouble off Portland, but ran clear of danger as the wind abated.

NINE REPORTED DEAD

The gale howled from London to Vienna, doing considerable damage. Rivers of France, Germany and Belgium rose past the flood stage and threatened to cut a swath through populous industrial and farming sections.

Nine persons are known to be dead as a consequence of the gale and floods, and at least 200 have been injured.

Guard Walter Woods, armed with a loaded cane, jumped into the melee and with Guard John Mahoney dispersed the thrilled onlookers.

The two were taken to "No. 2," the detention room of the prison, and then turned over to Warden James H. Hogsett.

Xmas Basket Fund Gets Under Way

The Boston Evening American's 1930 Christmas Basket campaign is officially open. The need this year is great, if baskets and clothing are to be sent to all families in urgent need of them.

The Boston Evening American's Helping Hand department has been busy in its mercy work for some weeks past, getting clothing and quick relief for many shivering families.

This work will be supplemented and carried through Christmas by the Basket Fund.

Both departments and the original organization of "Good Fellows" are to be used in bringing quick relief where it is urgently needed. They will supplement the aid given by the city and charitable organizations, whose funds can provide only partial relief.

The Christmas baskets will be as big as the funds will permit. It is hoped that a number of hungry families, particularly families with children, can be supplied with enough substantial food to last a week.

It is hard to explain to a hungry child why there is no food. This is the most heart-breaking thing a father, broke and out work, or an unfortunate widow has to face.

Before these worthy and needy families may be cared for, of course, it is necessary to obtain their names and addresses, the number in the family, and the most urgent needs. School teachers, ministers, charitable organizations, neighbors, postmen, and policemen and firemen can do their bit by seeing that the required information concerning any worthy families they know of is sent to The

HOUSE MAY GET 15 'AT LARGE'

Massachusetts elects her 15 Congressmen "at large" in 1932 if Governor-elect Joseph B. Ely vetoes the re-districting plan which the Republican Legislature sends him.

There will be 99 Democrats in the House, more than enough to prevent the Republicans from obtaining the necessary vote to pass their plan for congressional districts over the Governor's veto.

Under the law the Legislature must change the districts so as to have 15 Congressmen, instead of the present 16, before the 1932 elections take place. If by that time, the State is not divided into 15 districts, the 15 Congressmen will be elected at large.

HULTMAN ACTS AS RUM ESCORT

A Boston police commissioner, for the first time since national prohibition was inaugurated, left his office today to escort a load of liquor through the city.

The liquor consisted of 15 gallons of whiskey, 10 gallons of gin and 200 gallons of liquor, consigned from the Back Bay police station to Long Island Hospital—with federal government sanction.

Permission to move the liquor, seized in raids right after prohibition started, was secured from federal authorities on condition the police commissioner accompany the load.

Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman accompanied by his legal adviser, Asst. Corporation Counsel Leo Schwart, rode with the liquor to Driscoll's Landing, Atlantic ave., where it was transferred to the police boat Watchman.

Tomorrow at 9 a. m. Commissioner Hultman will escort, under similar conditions, a load of 5300 gallons of assorted liquors from the Back Bay station to City Hospital.

SO. BOSTON VET HELD; HAS CASH IN BANK

Commissioner Lydon Reveals That $75,000 Has Been Illegally Taken

More than $75,000 in city funds for soldiers' relief has been given illegally, it was revealed today, with the arrest of the first man in a drive for its recovery by John J. Lydon, soldiers' relief commissioner.

A charge of larceny [illegible] in six counts was placed against William J. Bartholomew of West 5th st., South Boston, when he was arrested today at City Hall.

He had called for a payment of $40 when Police Inspectors William Connolly and Joseph [illegible] produced a warrant and made the arrest.

GOING ON EIGHT YEARS

After the arrest, Commissioner Lydon said:

"More than 1500 men have collected illegally in the past eight years, and I have asked Asst. Corp. Counsel Hale Power to handle a drive for its recovery.

"It seems too bad that unscrupulous men have had such claims on the city."

Police said that investigation of Bartholomew's finances revealed $1927 in deposits with the South Boston Savings Bank and a trust fund of $2295 in the name of his mother, for whose support he was awarded relief.

WITH MOTOR TRANSPORT

The counts of larceny specify $30 each for the months of April, May and June, 1926, and last March, April and May for $40 each.

He applied again two weeks ago on the $40 basis and appeared today for the first collection.

Bartholomew served during the war with the Service and Parts Unit of the [illegible] Motor Transport Corps. He is 43 and makes his home with his mother.

OWN CARS AND HOUSES

John W. Reth, former commissioner and now state fire marshal, said every application during his 10-month regime before Lydon, was investigated but that on old cases about $1000 had been collected in refunds from veterans who made fradulent claims.

Investigation then, he said, showed some of those who had collected owned automobiles and real estate, but continued to draw on relief funds.

CAROL INSTALS MME. LUPESCU IN PALACE THAT HELENE SCORNED

CORONATION HALTED BY NEW COUP

King Makes Good the Threat Made to Divorced Wife When He Took Michael

Bucharest, Nov. 24 (INS)—Allowing love for his paramour to override all other considerations, King Carol II of Rumania has installed Mme. Magda Lupescu in the royal palace here as chatelaine, it was learned from unimpeachable private sources today.

The presence in the palace of Mme. Lupescu, who followed Carol to Rumania soon after his successful coup d'etat, furnishes the reason for the hitherto unexplained postponement of the sovereign's coronation, and may result in its abandonment altogether.

Dyeing her auburn hair black and traveling by a circuitous route, Mme. Lupescu, with whom Carol had lived for many years in exile, arrived in Rumania secretly a few days after Carol seized the Rumanian throne and demoted his son, Michael, from king to the role of crown prince.

TAKES WIFE'S SON AWAY.

She took up residence in a chateau not far from Bucharest and remained there during the exciting weeks which followed the coup when King Carol tried ineffectually to bring about a reconciliation with his wife, the former Princess Helene of Greece, who divorced him while he was in exile.

At that time, International News Service learned exclusively that Carol delivered an ultimatum to his divorce wife, threatening that unless she agree to a reconciliation he would take Michael from her and set up Mme. Lupescu in the royal palace.

For a while it appeared that Princess Helene would be swayed by the threat, but she remained adamant, and a few weeks ago Michael was taken from her side and placed in the Roumanian military academy over the protests of Helene and Carol's mother, the dowager Queen Marie.

ACTION STIRS ENMITY

Still Helene refused and now, according to the information received today, Carol has made good the second part of his ultimatum and taken Mme. Lupescu into the palace.

It is reported that this action has shaken to some extent Carol's strong position with the people and the Government. The populace was bitterly disappointed over postponement of the coronation, as it was a festivity which had been looked forward to with keen anticipation.

In this connection, a government spokesman explained some weeks ago that a formal coronation was not required under Roumanian royal law, and cited the case of a former Roumanian sovereign who had ascended the throne but had not been crowned until many years after.

$250,000 LOSS, 10 HURT IN FIRE

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 24 (AP)—Ten firemen were hurt, 15 others required medical attention, and property of estimated value of about $250,000 was destroyed last night in a fire of undermined origin which swept through the Smedley Company's warehouse in lower Chapel st.

The fire, in spite of its threat at times, was held within the heavy walls of the building, which had been put up for a storehouse.

The Smedley Company today set its loss at $170,000 on the building and $10,000 on contents. Thomas C. Hood Company, wholesale grocers, had a loss of $25,000, and the Ideal Shirt Manufacturing Company had $15,000 loss.

In the storehouse was furniture valued at $100,000 belonging to Madame Vincent Ardenghi, widow of William Whitman Farnam, former treasurer of Yale University, which was packed ready for shipment to Paris.

Camden, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP)—Edward Wingerter and Joseph L. Jones landed at central airport here shortly afternoon today from Caldwell, N. J., on their flight to South America. They took on gasoline, had lunch and then hopped for Baltimore to spend the night.

Caldwell, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP)—Two youths in a two-cylinder monoplane, Edward Wingerter of Newark and Joseph L. Jones of Riverside, Ct., set out at 9:10 a. m. today on a flight to South America.

They planned to follow the Atlantic seaboard, hop over to Havana and then jump from Cuba to a field in British Guiana.

They expect to stop at almost every airport along the way, for their little ship carries only eight gallons of gasoline and has a cruising speed of but 65 miles an hour.

Wingerter is 25 and Jones is 19. Both are married and their wives and mothers saw them off this morning. Jones' mother is sponsoring the flight. The fliers plan to spend tonight at Baltimore. The Baby monoplane, blue and orange, has a wing spread of 25 feet.

High Court Ignores Trial by Jury Test

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused to pass on the constitutional right of petty offenders to a trial by jury, a question much discussed in connection with prohibition enforcement.

The court sustained a ruling of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals that William H. Cols was illegally deprived of a jury trial in the imposition of a $100 fine or 30-day jail sentence for reckless driving.

The decision was interpreted as too narrow to cover the much discussed question whether minor liquor offenses could be tried without jury, as suggested by the Wickersham commission for expediting action.

Full satisfaction with Florida, which is diferent, because the prohibition law is enforced," was expressed today in Orlando, Fla., by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, who gave up her Massachusetts residence in Beverly when Massachusetts voted wet three weeks ago.

The wets, she said, were far from victorious in the election. She is determined, she insisted, that she will fight the harder for her cause as general chairman of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement.

"There was no victory for the enemy in the election," she said. "Only Massachusetts furnished the setback.

FRENCH IN FEAR OF DO-X AS BOMBER

Delegate Asks Disarmament Commission to Check Up All Countries

Geneva, Nov. 24 (AP)—A word picture of the huge 12-motored German seaplane, DO-X, equipped as a military machine, dropping bombs on London, Paris and Rome, was drawn for the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations today by Rene Massigli, French representative.

The allusions to the DO-X were made before a gathering already startled by one sensation, the abrupt departmure of Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, to confer with the Russian ambassador at Rome and then to Moscow, abandoning his work with the disarmament commission. Members of the Soviet delegation said he had done all that was possible in the commission and was disgusted with its record in drafting a disarmament treaty.

FEARS PLANES IN WAR

M. Massigli's introduction of the DO-X into the proceedings came in the course of development of his contention that a highly developed civil aviation arm constitutes a powerful war menace. His argument was in support of insertion in the draft treaty of an article calling for full publicity regarding the number of civil planes and dirigibles annually in each country.

Ambassador Gibson said the United States preferred to regulate this problem out of the bounds of the contemplated disarmament convention, but that if the majority of the commission preferred to deal with it at this time he would agree.

GERMANY FAVORS PLAN.

Count Von Bernstorff said Germany strongly favors the fullest publicity on commercial airships. He quoted a French air service official as asserting that converted civil craft stand a feeble chance in combat with planes built for military service.

Viscount Cecil, for England, also emphasized what he regarded as the great war potentialities of civil airships and offered an amendment to the draft treaty which would require additionally an annual statement of expenditures on commercial flying machines.

N. Sato, speaking for Japan, said his government favored publicity on civil craft.

AUTO IN DICE GAME HOLDUP IS TRACED

Police Find Narcotics in Car in Revere After Gamblers Lose $6000

An automobile, bearing New York registration plates and believed by police to have been the car used by three gunmen who held up a dice game in Lynn woods, was found in a Revere garage today.

Hypodermic needles and a quantity of drugs were found under the seat. The car had been taken to the garage early today for repair.

Motorcycle Officer Daniel Sweeney of Revere saw it in the garage and learned a young man had driven it in an hour before.

Gamblers, reporting the hold-up, said they had been robbed of more than $6000.

Police have reason to believe the holdup was due to a feud among gamblers. They believe the hold-up men came from Revere.

The game yesterday started at about noon in a wooded section of Lynn, near the Saugus line. Included among the players were many of the so-called "big shots" of Greater Boston, regular patrons of this particular game, which is known to be one of the biggest in this section.

The game had been in full swing for about two hours when the robbery took place. At that time there was about $1,500 in the "pot."

by the flood, with the Rhine and Moselle many feet above normal stages.

The wind, which in places reached hurricane force, save in Belgium, accounted for most of the damage done. At Havre the wind attained a velocity of 70 miles an hour. At Boulogne 26 craft were torn from moorings and driven ashore.

The storm moved eastward and raged across Austria, where Vienna appeared hardest hit. Here one person was killed and 100 others were injured. Residences were badly damaged. The wind blew 50 miles an hour.

In Germany, Bavaria suffered most. In Munich, both towers of the Munich-Stadelheim radio station crashed. Considerable damage from the wind was reported from Nuremberg, Coblenz and along the Moselle valley.

The Berne district in Switzerland suffered from an electric and hail storm.

Thousands in Paris Suburb Flee Flood

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP)—A heavy rain early today sent the Seine, already nearly out of its banks, up 19 inches, seriously endangering a large section of Paris.

Three thousand residents of Viry-Chatillon, a suburb on the southeast, were forced to flee during the night when the Orge, an affluent of the Seine on its left bank inundated the town. Most of the refugees spent the night in the town hall.

The Seine this morning had a gauge of 16 feet. The lower sections of the city were genuinely alarmed.

Twelve families are homeless at Savigny-Sur-Orge and the towns of Perreuy, Nogent, Boissy St. Leger are partially under water.

The Marne river has flooded the entire department of the Marne, where families have been driven out of their homes.

30 Feared Drowned in Ship Lost in Gale

Cuxhaven, Germany, Nov. 24 (AP)—Fear was entertained today that the German steamer Louise Leonardt, from Hamburg with a cargo of potash for the United States, had been lost with all hands in a gale in the Elbe estuary. She had a crew of 30.

The Louise Leonhardt became disabled and stranded on Grossvogel sandbank near the Elbe No. 1 Lightship. Lifeboats received no answer to their wireless calls and could not locate the vessel. She was of 3,364 tons displacement.

Owners of the ship, Leonhardt and Blankenberg of Hamburg, said they considered the ship lost. Her exact destination was to be wirelessed to the ship while it was on the high seas.

100 Homes in German Village Under Water

Hamburg, Germany, Nov. 24 (AP)—Boiling seas in the Elbe estuary today breached a dike and submerged a wide stretch of low lying country and the village of Nettelnburg which war cripples had built. More than 100 homes were submerged.

A large number of inhabitants of the flooded village fled, others taking refuge in attics.

Of the Alte Liebe, widely known to all Hamburgers as a popular yacht racing resort near Cuxhaven, nothing was visible except the roof of the boathouse.

Eighty Villages in Belgium Under Water

Brussels, Nov. 24 (AP)—A highly critical situation in the flooded Belgian area developed today with renewal of rain and a high gale after a respite afforded by yesterday's bright weather.

Eighty villages and at least a half a million acres of farm land were under water with the flood progressing hourly.

Pontoon detachments of Belgian troops were called out on urgent summons to help thousands of civilians occupied in the fight against the rising waters.

High tides today wiped out most of the work accomplished on strengthening dams during the low water period.

King Albert today visited the flood victims, who for the second time in three years have been forced to abandon their homes. The residents have been frank in their criticism of the alleged lack of foresight by responsible authorities, who they contend were aware that the Scheldt's dams were insufficient resistance to floods.

Edna Leedom Again Dodges Love Suit

New York, Nov. 24—It now looks as if we'll get light wines and beer—and maybe hard likker, too — before those battling Broadway blondes, Edna Leedom and Doris Endor, stage their legal hair-pulling fracas to see who loved Charles (Chick) Endor and why.

Edna Leedom

Doris, to whom Chick now croons those Alimony Bloohoo-hoos, asks $400,000 from Edna in a love piracy suit filed in Atlantic City two years ago.

Now Edna doesn't seem to be anxious to go to bat with Doris. So Saturday her lawyers persuaded Judge Frank Sooy in Atlantic City to grant them the ninth postponement they've asked since Doris sued.

Edna said she was painfully injured in a fire at her home on November 1.

3 WOMEN KILLED AS DOG BATTLES EIGHT BANDITS IN ROADHOUSE

BULLETS FLY AS LIGHTS GO OUT

Great Dane Rushes Into a Storm of Shots to Aid His Master in Holdup

Chicago, Nov. 24 (AP)—A Great Dane pitted his courage and strength in a fight against eight Chicago robbers and, although defeated, the wounds he inflicted, police believed, may lead to the apprehension of the men who shot to death three women, two of them entertainers in a roadhouse.

The dog, fighting furiously, slashed right and left at the eight invaders, but guns and pistols, blazing in the darkness as the lights of the resort in suburban Summit went out, won. Besides the three women slain, three men were injured, all apparently hit by the gunmen's bullets.

Despite the fact the holdups escaped, their loot was only $200.

TO AID OF MASTER.

As one of the holdup men began pushing Henry Goetz, owner of the resort, the Great Dane leaped to the aid of his master, sinking his teeth in the man's leg, and the gunman, in sudden fright, began to fire. The next instant the place was in darkness. Panic reigned as shots flew.

When the lights were turned on again, they revealed Miss Mary Brining, 22, formerly of Champaign, Ill., and Miss Alice Ward of Milwaukee, dead, with bullets in their backs, and Miss Mary Ganey, owner of a beauty parlor, fatally wounded. John Gates, a waiter; Jack O'Bierne and Lieut. James Micus, a railway detective, also were wounded.

SERIES OF CRIMES.

While the panic was at its height Lieut. Micus added to the din by firing at the invaders. They used two motor cars to escape when the lieutenant, nearly overcome by his wounds, lost their trail.

The holdup was the major crime of a series that Chicago and vicinity suffered over the week-end.

Guyon's Paradise, a dance hall on the West Side, was bombed, but the damage was slight. Police blamed labor troubles for this.

Among the other crimes was the holdup of an oil filling station, in which police shot and killed one of the robbers.

Policeman Hubert J. Dillon was shot and killed by a drunken negro, who in turn was killed by Dillon's fellow officers.

County District Attorney C. T. Crain has called a joint conference of the current grand jury and his newly-formed committee of public safety for tomorrow. Authors of complaints testifying to more than 15 rackets will be asked to tell their stories, he said.

If complaints continue to come in and victims cooperate, three grand juries will sit on the evidence this month and four in December.

Warden E. Lawes of Sing Sing estimates there are more than 10,000 active racketeers in New York, not including bootleggers.

Police Foil Pair's Dash for Liberty

A dash for liberty by two youthful prisoners was frustrated by Officer William Kelley of Malden today at the East Cambridge House of Correction. Joseph Gogun, 17, and John H. Brennan, 18, both of Malden, were being brought to the East Cambridge jail from Malden and managed to slip the handcuffs which bound them. When the jail was reached, both broke away from Kelley, but were caught after a block chase.

$2500 REWARD IN GEM MURDER

Springfield, Nov. 24—Reward of $2500 for information leading to arrest and conviction of the murderers of Nathan A. Sachs, New York diamond merchant, in the Hotel Charles, was offered today by the Jewelers' Security Alliance of the United States.

Information of the reward was telephoned today to Capt. Daniel F. McCarthy, chief of detectives, by B. L. Scott, superintendent of the Pinkerton Detectives Agency at Hartford, Ct.

Sachs was slain in his room late Saturday, presumably by two men who knew he carried unset diamonds in a chamois bag hung around his neck.

In an effort to learn identity of the two strangers she carried down in the hotel elevator from the 10th floor Saturday, Mrs. Annie Ferioli, an elevator operator at the hotel, will be taken to New York tomorrow to look over photographs in the Rogues' Gallery.

Mrs. Ferioli reported the shirt of one of the men bore what appeared to be bloodstains. One of the men also carried a brief case, similar to one stolen from Sachs' room.

Sachs Was Shadowed in Worcester Before Murder

Worcester, Nov. 24 (AP)—Nathan A. Sachs, Brooklyn diamond salesman, shot to death in a Springfield hotel Saturday, carried diamonds valued at $75,000, according to O. J. Bousquet, jeweler, on whom Sachs called Thursday. Mr. Bousquet told police that during Sachs' visit, he appeared extremely nervous, and that two suspicious characters were in the store at the time. This indicated, it is believed, Sachs had been shadowed for several days.

THAYER SAYS HE HAD TO SLEEP IN HENHOUSE

Declares Wife Insisted on the Chauffeur Staying in the Home, So He Left

Worcester, Nov. 24—Fred B. Thayer, wealthy Grafton sportsman, testifying in his cross action divorce suit, today told of finding Albert Desjardin, chauffeur, in the bedroom of Mrs. Jane H. Thayer.

Thayer said Despardin's only explanation was that he must have overslept. Though head of the house, he was forced tos leep in the hencoop when Mrs. Thayer refused to permit the chauffeur to leave, he testified.

The witness, who suffers from high blood pressure and testified while seated, said the discovery of Desjardin in his wife's room was made one morning in November.

Thayer, who occupied a separate room, testified he got up early and went to that of his wife.

He then returned to his own room followed by Desjardin, he testified, the conversation being continued downstairs.

SLEPT IN HENHOUSE

"He said he wanted to take her and go away with her," the witness testified. "I told him to take her and both get out. Mrs. Thayer said Albert would stay and I would get out, so later on I left and slept in the henhouse."

Thayer said he did not hire Albert Desjardin, but had hired his brother as pilot of a plane which he purchased in March of 1929.

"My wife decided she would rather ride than fly and that is why she hired Albert as chauffeur, I guess," he said.

The witness said he first suspected his wife and Albert when they took four hours for a ride to the airport usually covered in 30 minutes.

He said Albert stayed at the house and ate there, "and I objected when he started to take my place."

SHERIFF IS CALLED.

He first met Albert Desjardin, whom he named as co-respondent, in May of 1929, Thayer testified. He said at that time he was interested in an aviation project and had purchased a 35-acre field in connection with it.

Deputy Sheriff J. Harry Flynn, first witness called when the trial resumed this morning, told how Mrs. Thayer fainted in his arms when found with Desjardin.

The incident occurred, the witness said, at the time of the now famous raid on the Thayer mansion, when Flynn, Deputy Sheriff Arthur A. Keefe and Thayer found Desjardin leaving Mrs. Thayer's room.

Cross-examined by Atty. Clarence E. Tupper for Mrs. Thayer, the witness said he and Keefe seized Desjardin "by the neck and shoulders, to start him on his way."

FAINTED IN HIS ARMS

Mrs. Thayer, he said, pleaded with "Albert" not to leave, whereupon Thayer said:

"He's going out of this house and you, too," whereupon Mrs Thayer fainted in Flynn's arms.

"Don't mind that," the witness quoted Thayer as saying, "she can pull them every 15 minutes."

Flynn said Mrs. Thayer promptly recovered and began a tirade against her husband.

Both Thayer and his wife charge each other with misconduct, and Thayer has brought suit against the former family chauffeur and aviator, Desjardin, for alienation of affections. Desjardin in turn is seeking to collect money he claims is due him for back pay.

When Tupper finished with the witness, he was taken under cross-examination by Attorney Rufus B. Dodge for Desjardin.

Breaks Way to Liberty

MAJ. FRANCO

JAILED FOR ANTI-GOVERNMENT utterances, Maj. Ramon Franco, Spanish transatlantic flight hero, forced his way to freedom from the jail in which he had been placed Friday. Eduardo Reyes, another air service hero, escaped with Maj. Franco. (Int'l photo.)

Madrid, Nov. 24 (AP)—Maj. Ramon Franco, Spain's premier aviator, who Friday was sentenced to eight months imprisonment for alleged seditious utterances, today escaped from the cell where he has been incarcerated for more than a month.

The transatlantic aviator, who is the idol of the Spanish populace and the hero of the army air service, forced the window of a section of the old prison in which he was held, making his getaway sometime between 3 a. m. and dawn today. Another aviator, Eduardo Reyes, escaped with Franco.

MAN CLEARED IN LOTTERY RAID

Samuel Gilman, 36, of Waltham st., West Newton, was cleared of lottery charges today in Newton court, while in municipal court, downtown, warrants charging larceny were being issued against his wife, Florence Sennott, alias Gilman, as an alleged shoplifter.

In connection with the same shoplifting charges, a warrant was also granted charging larceny against Julia Riley of Brookline ave., Back Bay.

And in Municipal court, meanwhile, still connected with the same case, Mrs. Lillian Donovan of Willoughby st., Brighton, was arraigned, and pleaded not guilty to a larceny charge. Her case was continued for a week and she was held in $1000.

In Newton court, Gilman was found not guilty of maintaining a gaming nuisance and having lotter ytickets in his possession, although the tickets and paraphernalia were seized in his home. This included four adding machines and thousands of lottery tickets.

Louis Alpert, 30, of Homestead st., Roxbury, was found guilty of the lottery charges and was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction. He appealed.

Counsel for Gilman said he rented the third floor of his home to Alpert and had no knowledge of what was going on there.

Alpert's counsel said that although Alpert pleaded not guilty he would admit a finding of guilty. The lawyer asked for a fine, but Judge William F. Bacon replied:

"No. He makes his money too quickly. I will send him down to the cooler a while to think it over."

The raid on the Gilman home resulted from the arrest of Mrs. Donovan Saturday while she is alleged to have been transferring goods from a taxicab in Arlington st. to a car registered to Gilman.

10 MOVIE FIRMS LOSE BIG SUIT

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Ten leading motion picture distributors suffered defeat in the Supreme Court today in their defense against charges of using methods in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The uniform standard contracts and the credit systems enforced in leasing films to exhibitors were declared in violation of the anti-trust law.

The lower courts had held the standard contract a violation of the law because it required exhibitors to submit all disputes to arbitration.

The credit regulations, which required purchasers of theaters to assume unexpired contracts made by predecessors, were sustained by the lower courts as a proper method of protecting distributors.

It was contended exhibitors were forced to sign the standard contracts to obtain films through 32 boards of trade established by the distributors handling 85 per cent of all motion pictures.

The distributors involved are: First National Pictures, Inc.; Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation; Universal Film Exchanges, Inc.; United Artists Corporation; Fox Film Corporation; Pathe Exchange, Inc.; F. B. O. Pictures Corporation; Vitagraph, Inc.; Educational Film Exchanges, Inc.

CONGRESS WILL GET DRY LAW REPORT SOON

Wickersham Board Is in Final Session Before Laying It Before President

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The eleven members of President Hoover's law enforcement commission gathered here today on the last lap of an arduous task of the final drive in writing its prohibition report.

To the conference table was brought a stack of written briefs, prepared by the members themselves during the 10-day recess or before.

There was authority for believing these presented several different propositions, but through discussion of them the commissioners hoped to consolidate tentative conclusions on what should be done about the dry law.

END APPEARS TO BE NEAR.

The members will take Thanksgiving Day off and have no present expectation of reporting by the first of the month, when President Hoover submits his annual message at the opening of Congress. They are optimistic, however, about getting the job done by the end of the year.

The commission continued the secrecy perfected during 17 months of prohibition investigation. Its members have displayed anxiety to be left free from outside influence.

LAGUARDIA THREATENS

However, speculation on their progress and comment on the reception this or that type of report will receive in Congress continued to surround them.

Among the latest speculation is the pronouncement of Representative LaGuardia, Republican, New York, that they must recommend "something constructive" or he will do his best to prevent any appropriation for their study in the general field of crime and law observance after this fiscal year.

At the last session he was able for a time to block the $250,000 the commission needed for the present year.

Bingham to Demand Showdown on Beer

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—A showdown in Congress at this session on prohibition modification measures was demanded today by Senator Bingham, (R), Connecticut.

He will sponsor a bill to permit manufacture of four per cent beer.

"In view of the interest manifested in the country in prohibition," said Bingham, "the leaders ought to give us a chance to vote on this legislation at least."

The Senator will introduce legislation to allow physicians to prescribe malt as well as spirituous liquor.

"I believe these bills would promote temperance," he explained. "I believe they would promote the use and sale of grain and I believe they would aid employment. To say that one half of one per cent of alcohol is intoxicating is ridiculous."

Labor Organizes 3,000,000 to Fight for Modification

New York, Nov. 24 (US)—A national labor organization representing about 3,000,000 workers, to demand modification of the Volstead Act from the next session of Congress has been formed.

The announcement came from John Sullivan, president of the New York State Federation of Labor, who asserted that the organization was, to all intents and purposes, complete and had started functioning.

The new organization is known as the National Labor Legislative committee for the amendment of the Volstead act and has established headquarters in Washington.

Sanity Test for Holdup Suspect

Charged with attempted robbery, a man giving the name of Sidney Solomon of Brooklyn, was arraigned in Roxbury court today and after pleading not guilty was committed to Psychopathic Hospital for observation. David Patterson of Houston st., West Roxbury, testified that Solomon pressed a stone against his side and demanded money. Solomon was arrested later near the West Roxbury police station.

Woman in Charles River Is Rescued

Miss Elizabeth Conn, 50, of Lambertine st., Jamaica Plain, plunged into the Charles River near the Weeks Memorial bridge today and was rescued by Motorcycle Officer Alfred Goddard, of the Metropolitan Police, and John Shine, 25, of 10 Bicksfield st., South Boston. She is in the Cambridge Hospital, suffering from immersion.

Miss Conn, an invalid, was being wheeled across the Weeks bridge by her attendant, Lydia Spinnie, when she suffered a nervous spell. Miss Spinnie went to call a doctor. When she was gone, Miss Conn walked across the bridge to the Boston side and walked into the river from the bank.

The officer and Shine plunged after her and rescued her after she had been carried 30 feet out.

Council Demands Scanlon's Discharge

A demand that Police Commissioner Hultman discharge Bernard Scanlon, his newly appointed secretary, on the ground he was not a resident of Boston, was continued in an order passed by the City Council today. The order, introduced by Councillor John F. Dowd of Roxbury, directed that Mayor Curley request Governor Allen to direct the police commissioner to discharge Scanlon, who is called a resident of Melrose immediately and select a Boston resident for the post. Councilllor James Hein of Allston introduced a second order, also passed, that the police commissioner be requested to provide council with the names and addresses of those seeking appointment as his secretary.

Sleep Walker With Razor Kills Kin; Slashes 2

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Michael Filosa went walking in his sleep with a razor today, and when his journey was over his half-brother had been slashed to death and his mother and half-sister were unconscious with wounds in their Brooklyn flat.

Police, summoned by screaming neighbors, found Filosa standing in the front room with the razor in his hands and a dazed expression on his face. In one bedroom they found Salvatore de Hall, 16, dead, and in another his mother, Mrs. Anna de Hall, 49, and his sister, Catherine, 14, suffering from numerous wounds about the face and body.

The woman and her daughter were taken to a hospital where their lives were despaired of. Filosa was taken to police headquarters where he was held on an open charge pending developments. He was unable to give police a coherent explanation of the tragedy, except to say he had been dreaming and did not realize what he was doing.

Filosa, 28, of regular habits, police said had not been drinking and was on good terms with the other members of the family. He had long been a victim of somnambulism, they said.

Girl, Attacked at Beach, in Hospital

A mystery of a beaten girl confronted Lynn and Salisbury police today when officials of the Lynn hospital notified them that a girl had been brought in there unconscious early yesterday morning.

On receipt of the delayed report, that told of an attack at Salisbury Beach, Lynn police notified Salisbury. The girl was unconscious more than 24 hours, the report said.

George French, Salisbury selectman, took charge of the case in the absence of the police chief on leave and sent an officer to Lynn to talk with the girl. Her name was withheld by police and hospital authorities. The latter said that she is in serious condition.

Hospital Fund Drive Near $100,000 Mark

Nearly one-fifth of the total $500,000 sought by the Good Samaritan Hospital for intensive study of rheumatic heart disease was announced as pledged today during the second report luncheon of the women's committee at Perkins Hall, Women's Educational and Industrial Union. The total of gifts thus far is $97,379, according to the committee.

Mrs. Henry B. Chapin presided at the luncheon and speakers were Mr. William Stanley Parker, a vice-chairman, and Dr. Samuel A. Levine of the Beth Israel and Peter Bent Brigham hospitals.

'Corpse Candles' on Ships Frighten Old Seamen

San Francisco, Nov. 24 (AP)—The appearance of "corpse candles" nightly on the mast tips and spar ends of ships in the bay here brought forth mutterings from superstitious mariners today.

To the superstitious, the phenomenon presages disaster. Old salts ignored the scientific explanations and asserted the last time "corpse candles" appeared here was just before the earthquake and fire which destroyed downtown San Francisco in April, 1906.

A "corpse candle," sometimes called St. Elmo's fire in honor of the patron saint of sailors, is a visible "brush discharge" of electricity. In the case of ships the discharge appears on sharp or projecting points and is said to be due to the difference between the stars and the surrounding atmosphere.

The phenomenon is common in the tropics but rare in these latitudes. The navy hydrographic office and the Weather Bureau agreed the phenomenon was due to extreme dryness of the air strata.

Cut in Municipal Pay Asked to Aid Jobless

Editor Boston American:

We have heard of all sorts of methods advanced for relief of unemployed but nothing seems to come from them.

The writer believes he has a solution that would help a lot and make for more brotherly love.

To begin with, your reader has lived through several great business depressions—namely, the Cleveland period from 1893 to 1896; the Roosevelt bad times of 1907-8; the Wilson hard times of 1913-14, and the present slump, and in all of those years of want and deprivation we find the same class to be the sufferers. And who are they? The producing class—mechanics, laborers, clerks, farmers, seamstresses, tailors, janitors, etc.

When the World War was on, the cost of all commodities was doubled, but, to meet the higher cost of living, salaries and wages were doubled. Now, the war is over, and living costs are very near pre-war, and the salaries and wages of the producing classes have come down to make that possible, but what of the non-producing class, namely national, state governments, county, city and town officers and employes whose salaries and wages are based on war times, who never know the meaning of hard times, business depressions or slumps in trade. Isn't it about time that they had the Biblical expression, "Thou Art Thy Brother's Keeper," impressed upon their minds, and if not willingly, be made to do their share towards ending the suffering and want that we see today.

Every unemployed man in this State could be put to work, if all state, county, city and town officers and employes would accept a 20 per cent cut in salary or wages for only one year, this money to apply to new equipment for hospitals, etc., and improvements in the cities and towns of the state. Massachusetts has always taken the lead in legislation for her public servants. Now let the beneficiary of those laws come across and do something for their less fortunate brothers and sisters who are in want through no fault of their own.

Hopefully—but Doubtfully Yours,
JOHN B. DRESSMAN,
Assessor, Dedham.

Lest One Forget How Divorce Evil Spreads

Editor Boston American:

While we are discussing prohibition, with the good or the evils it has brought us, we are becoming negligent about a question that is of most vital importance, not only to the individual but to the nation as well.

I mean the divorce evil. This thing has crept upon us in such a stealthy fashion that it has left us unaware of the foothold it has gained and the damage it has wrought.

It surely can't be possible that we are going to remain passive in the face of this monster.

Are we to raise our children in a world that lauds a horde of unscrupulous wantons, because of their accomplishments in the matrimonial mart? To raise our daughters to believe that their chief aim in life is to place themselves on the auction block?

Answer to Cleopatra Problem Is Sought

Editor Boston American:

I belong to a group of students who meet weekly and every one brings a problem. This one floored us last week, brought into the gathering by a young student from So. Carolina. Here it is:

"If the nose of Cleopatra had been shorter the history of the world would have been changed."

Can anyone throw light upon this unusual remark, having such a nasal prominence?

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

That remark that youth of today is more liable to temptation than those of maturer years is not true. It was made in an address in Boston. I will tell you why it is not true in the language which President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard used some time ago on this matter:

> "Temptation increases with age," he said. Anybody who knows anything about the devil knows this—the younger the boy the more amenable he is to discipline and the more certain he is to fit himself into the general scheme of college life."

I believe that this statement contains more grains of truth and it is right to the point. It is the old codgers that yield more rapidly to temptation than youth. They don't care.

Items of News That Attract Interest

Editor Boston American:

The following items in your paper have drawn my interest and my chum alongside me. Good luck to those boy twins in Wellesley, now housed in a good home, ready to grow amid very pleasant surroundings. One of them may develop into a President of the United States. There are too many cases of petty stealing going on. Silk disappears in the police station; articles in hospitals and churches. Umbrellas still hold the fort for a popular steal.

Rep. George H. Tinkham must now hold his horses, as Bishop Cannon is recovering from his late illness.

Judge Lindsay said in Boston children lie because of fear. That's very true.

Women today are showing a higher percentage of dying from cerebral hemorrhage than a generation ago, according to Dr. Leary. They worry too much over bills. Few men do.

Don't eat fast in restaurants and in school luncheon rooms. This is a pernicious habit that is far too common, says Dr. W. R. P. Emerson. Ruminate more.

Reader Answers Six Questions for Writer

Editor Boston American:

In reply to questions by Benjamin Hersey in your issue, the following answers may enlighten some.

1—Who knows of anarchists in Walker's Center, Boston? Maybe they are the Reds who do not believe in capitalism. If so quiet it must be because they have failed to convince Americans to their views. All Americans are not easily imposed on.

2—Representative George Holden Tinkham is right to keep his hold on Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

3—What made people crazy? Maybe they either lost money or were imposed on. It is no wonder they were capable of committing crimes.

4—The Quincy pastor who advised in a Sunday sermon to pay your debts and be generous is a joke on job hunters.

When ministers mix politics with religion, they can cause the degeneration of the U. S. through armament, birth control, prohibition, etc.

5—As for so many people killed by automobiles, what is wrong. The states are as much to blame for poor streets and ought to make them as befitting auto traffic. All autos ought to have names of owners on cars in large letters. Numbers may not amount to much. Car drivers are to blame for fast driving, people for not seeing clearer roads to cross.

6—Prohibition is still the law. A woman who keeps a still and makes bad booze that she may get funds to save her starved children or husband is a criminal. On the other hand, if she makes good liquor that can pass government inspection it seems not so bad. Just the same no one has the right to run a still without a permit.

7—American business won for itself a reputation of efficiency and yet quarreled in it. The true reason must be because of gold standard that is not becoming to a growing country like the U. S.

In another decade time will show gold standard is a hindrance to prosperity. Wall Street, wedded to gold standard says Amen and refuses to listen to a change for the better.

As a Change from Potatoes
RECOGNIZED QUALITY SINCE 1867

TURKEY for Thanksgiving, of course! Or maybe goose, duck or chicken. Whatever it is, you can greatly increase the enjoyment of the meal without trouble or expense. Have MUELLER'S SPAGHETTI instead of potatoes.

Tempting Recipes at Little Cost

Even served plain it is a delicacy, but there are also many appetizing recipes—none of them expensive. Here is a very economical one:

SPAGHETTI Au Gratin

1 pkg. MUELLER'S SPAGHETTI; 2 tbsps. butter; 2 tbsps. flour; 2 cups hot milk; 1 tsp. salt; ½ tsp. pepper; 2 cups grated cheese; ½ cup bread crumbs. Parboil spaghetti 7 min. in 4 qts. boiling water with 1 tbsp. salt. Drain. Melt butter; add flour, milk, seasonings. Cook until thick. Put layer of spaghetti in greased baking dish, then layer of cheese, alternating with spaghetti on top. Pour sauce over, cover with bread crumbs, dot with butter. Set dish in hot water. Bake 20 min. or until crumbs are brown.

But be sure to ask for MUELLER'S, when you order from your grocer. There isn't another spaghetti to compare with it. MUELLER'S cooks up lighter and "fluffier" than any other, for it is made from a special blend of farina, according to exclusive processes. It is so easy to digest that even children just out of infancy thrive on it.

Boil for 9 Minutes

—and you will avoid overcooking, though one or two minutes more may be allowed if you want extra tenderness. Your grocer has MUELLER'S or can get it for you.

Queenie Smith to Spread Cheer

THANKSGIVING DINNERS will be personally delivered to 10 Boston families Wednesday by Queenie Smith, star of "The Street Singer," who is anxious to do her bit to relieve the distress of the needy.

Star to Provide Ten Needy Families With Turkey Dinners

Ten families among Boston's needy will have their burdens lightened and their households brightened for a day when Queenie Smith, the magnetic stage and grand opera star, calls upon each of the families Wednesday with a turkey and a basketful of vegetables, fruit and fixings for a real Thanksgiving dinner.

Miss Smith had planned to serve a turkey dinner on the stage of the Shubert Theater, where she is playing "The Street Singer," but had to forego this because of a special matinee Thursday.

As an alternative the diminutive comedienne asked the Boston Evening American to select ten of Boston's neediest families so that she could take complete dinners to their homes.

Miss Smith's letter to the editor of the America follows:

"As you probably know I will be in Boston for two weeks with "The Street Singer," musical comedy opening Monday night at the Shubert Theater.

"On Thanksgiving Day I had intended visiting the poorer sections of the city to offer a little cheer and practical assistance to some of the less fortunate folks, but I have been informed that my management has decided on a special matinee Thanksgiving Day, and therefore I will be unable to do as I had planned.

"As an alternative, however, it has occurred to me that I might make it possible for a few unfortunate families to have a pleasant day and at least a good substantial dinner by personally taking complete baskets to a few on the day before.

"To this end, may I ask you to select for me ten needy families in Boston? I will appreciate it if you will notify them that I will bring them a complete Thanksgiving dinner on Wednesday, and when I arrive it town Monday I will communicate with you and obtain the names and addresses of the families you select.

"Thanks and all good wishes to yourself and staff.

Sincerely,

(Signed) QUEENIE SMITH.

As stated in Miss Smith's letter to the American she personally will deliver these baskets on Wednesday. It is understood that the dinners will provide for families of five or six persons.

JAIL 'HORRORS' ARE PROBED

Wethersfield, Ct., Nov. 24 (AP)—An inquiry into the administration of the Connecticut state prison, requested by directors, was begun today by a committee appointed by Gov. John H. Trumbull.

The limitations of the inquiry will be those only set by the committee itself. Specifically, the first phase which was taken up today was to determine the basis of charges that inmates of the prison, who had been placed in solitary cells, had been inhumanely treated.

The charges were made in a recent newspaper article by Rev. Dr William H. Smith, now rector of Christ Church, Schenectady, N. Y., who resigned as a prison chaplain on October 1.

Dr. Smith in his personal account of his experience at the prison, using numbers to denote certain inmates, said placing men in solitary was "heartless brutality." He said of two inmates they were "down in the black hole" several days.

With publication of Dr. Smith's article, Col. Norris G. Osborn, president of the prison board for nearly 20 years, asked Governor Trumbull to have the Connecticut investigation. Col. Osborn is the dean of newspaper editors in Connecticut.

M'NARY HOLDS WHEAT PARLEY

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—The possibility of further wheat purchases of the farm board and additional regulations affecting grain and cotton exchanges were discussed today at Senator McNary's farm conference.

McNary, chairman of the Senate agriculture committee, said Chairman Legge of the farm board and Secretary Hyde made recommendations. He did not reveal their nature.

He did say, however, that Legge believed the farm board could sustain the wheat price at 76 cents a bushel, now more than 20 cents above the Liverpool market.

Legge discussed the board's reason for buying already more than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat. Secretary Hyde proposed amplification of existing regulations governing the grain and cotton exchanges.

BANK GUARD IS HELD IN PLOT

San Francisco, Nov. 24 (AP)—Traced by the number of a battery in a 200-stick-dynamite bomb delivered Saturday at the Spokane, Wash., Chronicle building, Henry A. Isle, night watchman of a San Francisco bank, was arrested here today.

The bomb, in the opinion of officers, was intended to wreck the Chronicle building. It was contained in an old trunk and was delivered to the Associated Press office in the newspaper's building.

Two years ago Ilse was acquitted of planting a bomb in the Spokane Spokesman-Review building. Both newspapers are published by W. H. Cowles.

Admitting, police said, he "knew all about" the previous bombing, Ilse denied direct knowledge of last Saturday's attempt. He blamed both attempts on two political gangs which he said had been fighting in Spokane for years.

$50,000 BLAZE IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, Nov. 24—Fire starting in the sub-basement of the Commerce Building, Market sq., last night, shot up through an air shaft and spread through the entire six floors, causing damage of more than $50,000.

One fireman was injured, and guests in two nearby hotels fled as the flames broke through the roof and leaped high into the air. Traffic was tied up for some time in Market sq. while firemen fought the two-alarm blaze.

Throngs of spectators blocked the streets. The tangle was straightened when police arranged temporary detours.

A number of rare books and valuable chemical apparatus in the offices of Calder and Strickland, chemists, were destroyed.

Hoseman William A. Beckett was taken to the hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the ankle. He plunged to the pavement when a ladder slipped.

Tasty Meat Sandwiches for the Men Folks

Taken from Martha Lee's Friday Morning Broadcast from Station WLEX.

Martha Lee

DID YOU ever order a meat sandwich and sit in pleased expectency waiting for it only to be disappointed at the dry, unattractive thing that posed under the name?

First of all, the meat for meat sandwiches must be moist — preferably the meat should be cooled in the water in which it was cooked. If it is dry it should have jelly, salad dressing, or catsup added. Meat should be sliced very thin across the grain so that there will be no long threads to wrap themselves around your teeth. The seasoning is all important and mustard, horse radish and meat sauces will help give zest.

A meat sandwich is usually a man's sandwich and he doesn't want the crusts cut off either. Chopped hamburg or other meat mixed with gravy or cream dressing or salad dressing makes a delicious sandwich filling and hot meat sandwiches with either sliced or chopped meats are easily prepared by placing the sandwich either toasted or plain in a hot oven for a few minutes and serving with piping hot gravy, tomato or cream sauce.

ROAST DUCK DELICIOUS

Roast duck sandwiches with apricot jam are delicious made thusly: Spread two slices of bread generously with butter. Place several thin slices of duck on one side and spread the second slice with apricot jam, put them together and cut in triangles.

These two-slice meat sandwiches are truly delicious made in such combinations as cold lamb with grape jelly, hot lamb with mushrooms, cold veal with cranberry sauce, hot veal with bacon, hot thinly sliced liver and bacon, hot roast beef with catsup, cold roast beef and chopped pickles, cold roast pork and thinly sliced apples, hot broiled ham with bananas, cold boiled ham with mustard and corned beef with mustard pickles.

For three-deck meat sandwiches try ham between the first and second slices and swiss cheese between the second and third. Chicken between the first and second and jelly between the second and third. Veal between first and second slices and pineapple between second and third slices. Broiled hamburg between the first and second slices and fried onions between the second and third. Broiled sausage between the first and second and cold lamb between the second and third. Roast beef between the first and second slices and asparagus between the second and third.

POT ROAST LUSCIOUS

Pot roast makes a luscious sandwich. Butter the two bread slices generously and place a medium thick slice of the pot roast cut across the grain of the meat. Spread the meat with catsup, jelly or horse radish sauce and serve on crisp lettuce.

Before long we will talk about some fish sandwiches. Until then fare thee well. Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

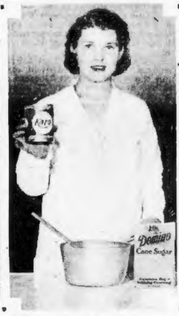
Easy to Make Pop Corn Ball That Children Like

MAKE A SYRUP of the butter, sugar, water and corn syrup. Boil until it brittles in cold water. Set to cool.



POP THE CORN in a frying pan with butter or in regulation corn popper on the stove or over open flame.

POUR COOLED SYRUP over popped corn slowly, stirring well. This amount moistens 5 quarts of popped corn.

FORM INTO BALLS, dipping the hands in cold water and shaking off surplus moisture. A bowl makes a nice mold.

Dainty Candy for Children

A "sure nuff" jolly time will be had by all making these delightful popcorn balls which the young lady is molding so gracefully in her hands in the picture today. When children have a craving for candy, pop corn confections are the best kind of healthful and nutritious sweets. It satisfies the "sweet tooth" and besides contains body-building norishment.

In making pop corn confections, it is especially important to use a corn that will pop white, crisp and flaky, without hulls or unpopped kernels. Annoying as it is to bite into tough hulls or hard kernels while eating plain buttered pop corn, it's even worse to encounter them while eating pop corn balls, candy or any of the other delicious sweets into which pop corn may be made. We've just been presented with some fine hulless pop corn, and we'll be glad to give you the name if you like.

To make the pop corn balls shown in the picture proceed as follows:

POP CORN BALLS

5 qts. popped corn
½ cup butter
3 cups sugar
1 cup corn syrup
1 cup water

Melt the butter, add sugar, syrup and water. Stir until the syrup boils, them do not stir again. Boil to 270 deg. F. or until candy is brittle when tried in cold water. Pour mixture slowly, stirring constantly, over corn which has been previously salted. Shape into balls when cool enough to handle.

Pineapple Pie Wins Prize

This week's $5 prize goes to Mrs. A. D. Quint, 4 Cotton st., Roslindale, Mass. for her delicious pineapple pie.

PRIZE PINEAPPLE PIE

1½ cups Hood's milk
½ cup Domino sugar
⅓ tsp. Worcester salt.
2 tbsp. Argo cornstarch
2 egg yolks (Hood's)
1 cup crushed pineapple (Finast).

Heat the milk. Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch and slowly add hot milk. Cook in double boiler until thick and cornstarch is thoroughly cooked, or about forty minutes. Pour on two egg yolks, return to double boiler and cook until the eggs thicken, or about three minutes. Cool and add one cup well drained crushed pineapple and one half tsp. vanilla. Pour into a baked crust and cover with a meringue made of two stiffly beaten egg whites and two tbsp. powdered sugar. Brown quickly in a hot oven.

Market Well Stocked for Thanksgiving Dinners

Turkeys are doing their best to get on the Thanksgiving dinner table this year by wearing low-priced tags. Fresh killed Westerns are as low as 39 cents per pound, and high quality native birds are 50 and 55 cents, some even going as high as 60, 65 and 70 cents.

Now that the turkey is off our mind, we can talk about vegetables fruits and "sich." And, by the way, remember that the market clerks would like to have something to be thankful for, and you can help by doing your Thanksgiving shopping early.

The old New England standbys, squash, cranberries, parsnips, yellow onions, potatoes, celery and carrots, are all doing their bit to make this an economical Thanksgiving season. Winter squash is around 3 cents per pound, cranberries 15 to 20 cents a pound, parsnips 5 to 7 cents, yellow onions 2 and 3 cents, and silverskin or Spanish mostly 5 to 8 cents. Native white celery is 15 to 20 cents, while that from New York is a little lower.

Native McIntosh and Baldwin apples are the headliners at the fruit counters. Florida oranges are much more plentiful, and the smaller sizes are very low priced, costing 18 to 25 cents a dozen.

Budget is singing peans of praise over the general reduction of meat prices. Lamb leg and forequarter quotations make lamb a decidedly economical purchase at 15 and 16 cents for forequarter and 29 cents for lamb leg. Rib roast of pork is 23 to 25 cents a pound, and boneless undercut roast of beef 33 to 35 cents.

Some stores are offering "specials" on butter, although regular butter prices are very low. Massachusetts special eggs are retailing for 75 to 80 cents a dozen in towns near Boston, or a little more, depending on size.

How to Make Hands Soft

Poor hands! Such faithful servants, and how roughly we treat them sometimes. Your choice of soap and cleaning powders will perform miracles for them, however, if you choose a favorite, creamy, soft soap granules for all washing purposes, from dishes to clothes.

You will notice a big difference in clothes washed with these wonder granules. Their creamy suds just loosen the dirt right out of the cloth, without harming the colors, leaving pure, fresh fabrics brighter and sweeter, with less labor.

You'll be surprised at the quick-acting, long-staying suds. No disappearing out of the water as soon as you turn your back. Just pour lukewarm water over a small quantity of these soap granules and presto!—a lively mountain of rich, sparkling suds that last through tubloads of clothes and pans of dishes.

Don't forget that the name of these concentrated granules is yours on request. Why not try them, and let them save time for you?

ELECTRICAL FIRM SHOWS MARKED PROGRESS IN IMPORTANT CONTRACTS

EDWIN C. LEWIS, Inc., Boston Electrical House Reports Encouraging Development

One of the firms which has brought the electrical industry to its present large proportions is the Edwin C. Lewis, Inc., of 121 Federal St., Boston.

This organization, which practically started at the foundation of Electrical Engineering in 1892, has developed since that time into one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country.

In fact, the scope of the work has broadened to such a degree that it includes everything in the line of electric light, power construction and equipment.

Development of the activities has made it necessary to divide the business into four departments, each distinct and complete in itself, yet all an integral part of the whole organization.

For example, there is the Electrical Engineering Department, devoted to electrical engineering and construction; the fixture department; the retail department, and the radio department.

The headquarters of the company are at 121 Federal Street, Boston, and New Haven, Conn.

In addition to carrying out tremendous contracts in Canada and abroad the company has recently made many important contracts in New England. Those now in progress total approximately $1,000,000 and will keep over 100 skilled men employed for a period of a year, an encouraging sign of returning prosperity in the face of pessimism that has prevailed of late.

997 CROWDED IN REFORMATORY

Concord Reformatory has the highest prison population in 30 years, it was learned today from Commissioner of Correction A. Warren Stearns.

There are 997 at this institution, against a normal population for the last ten years of between 600 and 700.

Some of the prisoners are housed in cells formerly used for disciplinary purposes in a part of the institution built in 1878. Arrangements are being made to turn a storeroom into a dormitory.

3 Families, Unable to Pay Rent, Ask Aid

Three Greater Boston families face eviction from their homes because they lack money to pay their rent which is long overdue. This was learned today through letters received from these families by the Boston Evening American Helping Hand Department.

For those charitably inclined, the Helping Hand Department has been established to act as "middle man" in aiding destitute families.

"We cannot pay our rent because we have no money to pay it. My poor mother is afraid that they will put us out of the house." This letter was received from a little girl, one of a family of 12, who are in need of food and clothing. In closing the girl wrote "Please see us if you don't believe it. Please help us. We are hungry."

Letters such as this are being received by the hundreds. Everyone can do his share by helping. Many have been taken care of and provided for with food, clothing, furniture, etc., but many letters have not been answered.

An elderly mother in Lynn lies dangerously ill on her bed at her home due to malnutrition.

Those wishing to help these needy families may call the Helping Hand Department, Liberty 4000 and secure their names and addresses.

WANT CLOTHES, STOVE
(Refer to Case 43)

I have been in a sanatorium for the past eight months, and I came home the first of September. My father has been dead nine years, and my mother was killed a year ago.

I am the oldest of seven so I must keep house for them. Two of the children are attending school, and the little boy who is six years old, can not go because he has no fit clothes to wear. I have a brother who is 19 and has not been able to get work for nine months. There is no one working only my sister who is 17 and the most she made is $7 a week. I am sleeping away back from the kitchen and the room is very cold. I need some kind of a stove to warm the room. I am afraid that I will have to go back to the sanatorium if I don't get it. If you can get me some children's clothes for a boy 10 years old and a girl 12, a boy six, I would appreciate it very much.

This girl lives in South Boston. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may learn the address by calling the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and asking for Case 43.

MOTHER WANTS COAT

Just a few lines to let you know that I would like some help. My husband went away and left me three months ago. I have two children that need clothes bad. I have no winter coat to go out. Also need dresses. I am rooming out with a lady. I can't even get money to pay for the rent. If you can get me a coat I will be very thankful to you.

This woman lives in Jamaica Plain. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may learn the address by calling the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and asking for Case 44.

MAN, 78, NEEDS COAT
(Refer to Case 45)

I saw in the Boston Evening American that you help poor people. I would like to ask you a favor. I am an old man, 78 years old, and haven't been working for years and haven't any income. I have been living on $4, all these years, my wife and I. So it is pretty hard to buy clothing and food on this money. I wish you would please remember me for Thanksgiving. I would be satisfied with an overcoat.

This man lives in Chelsea. Aid can be given him by calling the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and asking for Case 45.

ORPHAN NEEDS CLOTHES
(Refer to Case 46)

I am four years old and I lost mama three years ago. She died. I live with my grandparents but my father isn't working, and, gee, mister, I need some warm clothes as my grandpa's house is very cold. My grandpa didn't work for a long time. I can't go out and play with other kids cause I ain't go no shoes or coat, but, gee, I hope and hope you'll read my letter and open your heart to a little orphan. I will wait patiently.

This girl lives in North Cambridge. Anyone wishing to aid may call the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 46.

10 NEED FOOD
(Refer to Case 47)

I hope someone will help me as my husband has been hurt. I have 10 children. There are three children without shoes, or stockings or clothes and it looks now that we won't have any Thanksgiving or Christmas at all. I would not mind if I had a piece of meat for soup. May God bless you.

This woman lives in East Boston. Anyone wishing to aid may call the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 47.

NEW FIGURES ON U. S. JOBLESS

Washington, Nov 24 (INS)—The bureau of the census soon will issue revised unemployment figures, and also details of unemployment classified by sex, geographical location, by industries and otherwise.

This summary will show unemployment of those who are temporarily out of work, in addition to the original figure for those "out of work, able to work and looking for work." The original figure was about 2,500,000. The president emergency committee on employment estimated those out of work at a million more.

The census report will not include the perennially unemployed such as the so-called "idle rich," the mendicants, tramps and others who do not work from choice.

An enumeration of the number of radio sets in the country has been complied and soon will be available. The number of receivers has been mentioned as 13,000,000 by Gen. Saltzman, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission.

JOAN BENNETT SIGNED FOR LEAD IN "DOCTORS' WIVES," FOX FEATURE

BORZAGE TO DIRECT FILM

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24—You'd say things are breaking pretty for Joan Bennett, wouldn't you? First she signs herself a contract with United Artists calling for two pictures a year at a salary not often earned by a youngster her age.

Louella O. Parsons

Her contract gives her permission to go picture-making elsewhere, so she has now signed for the feminine lead in John Considine, Jr.'s, first Fox production, "Doctors' Wives." Joan will be co-starred with Warner Baxter who plays the doctor. The thorough manner in which Frank Borzage, the director, is going into the production of this picture is interesting. If you have read the story you know it calls for laboratory experiments and difficult operations. Maurine Watkins, who is writing the adaptation, is visiting the hospitals so that there will be no slip-up in the technical end. Few outsiders realize how much labor is put into motion pictures.

* * *

THE MOST DELIGHTFUL thing about Mack Sennett is that one never knows what he will do next. Life in our picture colony without Mack Sennett would just be too dumb. Mack, as I told you, flew to New York and arrived there in 36 hours. He was so enthusiastic over the speed that while enroute he got the idea of making a special in color, a race between a railroad train and an airplane to be shot in the air. Marjorie Beebe and a technical staff were summoned pronto to New York to get ready for the great adventure. All the cities enroute will be visited. Has Mack an eye on the box office? I'll tell the world he has.

* * *

THE LAST THING Marion Davies did before she took the train to New York was to assure Robert Leonard she would be back in time to start "It's A Wise Child." Robert Leonard is going to direct her again, and from the rushes of "The Bachelor Father" two people are in luck, both Marion and Bob. Marion says she is only going to stay in the East just long enough to transact some business and her friends who were down at the train to wish her bon voyage hope she won't decide to go to Europe or Asia before she returns.

Marion Davies

Genevieve Tobin

CURIOUS OUT IN Hollywood how quickly the sidewalk public gets to know a star. Genevieve Tobin, who only lately came here from the stage, got a big hand when she walked down the sidewalk at the "Min and Bill" premiere. Genevieve will get a bigger hand before Universal gets through with her for they are billing her in all their best numbers. She will have the feminine lead in "Seed" and she will make that instead of "The Behaviour of Mrs. Crane." Gladys Lehman is assisting Charles G. Norris in putting "Seed" on the screen and from all I hear it ought to be interesting.

* * *

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: MARIE DRESSLER at the opening of "Min and Bill" wearing a necklace presented to her by the daughter of the late LORD CURZON of London. WALLACE BEERY appearing at the theater with a patch on his head, put there, he said, by MISS DRESSLER while making the picture. Pretty RUTH SELWYN admitting she shed real tears over "Min and Bill." MISS DRESSLER paying tribute to MARION DAVIES, CORINNE GRIFFITH, NORMA SHEARER and GRETA GARBO in a speech she made at the opening of her picture. SID GRAUMAN taking a bow for his efforts in staging a fine entertainment at the Roosevelt Hotel. GEORGE GERSHWIN being applauded to the echo on his first appearance in our town. CHARLIE CHAPLIN, ESTELLE TAYLOR, JACK DEMPSEY, EDDIE WOODS, HARRY CROCKER, MRS. JACK WARNER among those glimpsed in the Blossom Room at GRAUMAN'S party. CHESTER VANDERLIP, popular head of the Bank of America in Hollywood, receiving congratulations on his 38th birthday. CHET'S small son sending a basket of chrysanthemums to his father. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Bright Star

MARIE DRESSLER
FROM HER LOOK Miss Dressler might well be reading the praise given her for magnificent work in "Min and Bill." (Loew's State).

DO-X SCENES IN NEWSREEL

Exclusive views of the inner compartments of the monster 12-motor German Dornier seaplane, the DO-X, on its flight from Amsterdam to England, feature the latest Hearst Metrotone News release now showing at Loew's State. Splendid aerial views taken from the DO-X are shown in addition to a flash of Lady Drummond Hay and Karl H. Von Wiegand, special Hearst correspondents, who made the trip.

Second in interest to the audience proved to be several scenes taken at the convention for household pets, held at Madison Square Garden. Everything from skunks to canary birds was snapped by the photographer.

Other items include a group of German girls using the "Whirling Wheel" to reduce; a fresh air school for Dutch kiddies at Volendam; a Japanese concert with its unusual and weird musical strains; and King George of England paying tribute to England's Unknown Soldier.

Soprano and 'Cellist on Repertory Program

Hizi Koyke, Japanese soprano, and Jean Bedetti, 'cellist, are sharing a program to be given at the Repertory tomorrow evening at 8:15. The program is to include the E Major Sonata, by Valentini, Aria, Bezelaire; Langdendoen's La Goyita; Gaubert's Cortege; Bruch's Kol Nidrei; Granados' Goyescas; and Popper's Elfentanz. These numbers are performed by Bedetti, and each group alternates with a group by Hizi Koyke, who sings: Handel-Bib's Aria from "Radamisto"; Strauss' Allerseelen; Delibes' O mer, ouvre toi; Yamada's Love Song; the Pleasure Seeker's Song; Shelley's Dream Rose; Strickland's My Lover is a Fisherman; and the Aria from Mascagni's "Iris."

Dawley Marionettes Coming to Boston

'SIN TAKES A HOLIDAY' HIT ON RKO KEITH SCREEN

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

DEATH TOOK A HOLIDAY not long ago, and had quite a good time of it on the Boston Rialto. Now the Devil follows suit, changing his merry-making, however, from the stage to the screen. Whatever it be that Mephisto is up to, he gets his innings in the title of this week's RKO Keith feature picture, "Sin Takes a Holiday," which has Constance Bennett for star and Basil Rathbone for its best actor.

* * *

Constance Bennett

PATHE DID "HOLIDAY" in magnificent manner; and this fact, together with the recurrence of that name word in this later film, probably leads one to expect equally great things of "Sin Takes a Holiday." It has quite a good story. Kenneth MacKenna, as the lawyer, devotes his off-hours to wine, women and song. Miss Rita La Roy goes strong for him; so do others. Rather than marry any one of the gay crowd of butterflies, he finds an idea in his rather businesslike secretary, Miss Bennett. He will marry her and pension her off; thus, so he thinks, he can continue his mad pace of general love-making without getting "hooked" into matrimony. But the secretary blooms into a great beauty and when she comes back from a long stay abroad, Mr. MacKenna discovers she is just the woman he needs to make life complete. They are ever so many twists and tangles, but it comes out all right in the end.

* * *

THE PICTURE has many good features, lavish sets, good sound reproduction, excellent photography. One that will appeal to feminine fans is the gorgeous assortment of gowns Miss Bennett dons. They're supposed to be up-to-the-minute as to style, and Miss Bennett certainly does wear them attractively. Another angle that will probably please is the "smartness" of the movie; it hits the high spots in high society, and shows the swanky idea in a number of resorts.

* * *

THAT REALLY is a weakness; for there seems to be an overplay of the social values in the film. There is at times a drag, when the sequences should be tripping it on the light fantastic toe. Miss Bennett, be it said, delivers a sterling characterization. Mr. Rathbone, as the disappointed lover, surpasses even the star. He is one of the truly good screen Thespians, always sure-fire. ZaSu Pitts does her bit well. Others in the cast are not so satisfactory.

* * *

"SIN TAKES A HOLIDAY" should, because of its various good points, prove excellent for the box office. Its title, too, should be intriguing to the fans. The picture is amusing, and will rank above the average of talkies now coming out of Hollywood.

Stage Who's Who

Nick Long, Jr., who endeavors to emulate a glider in flight when he "floats" from the off-stage heights to the floor of Shubert in Queenie Smith's latest starring musical success, "The Street Singer," rocketed into theatrical fame as the son of the celebrated combination, Idalene Cotton-Nick Long, Sr. Young Long's first appearance was at the age of six in a Washington Square Players' production of "Bushido," played by Katherine Cornell, Glen Hunter, Jose Ruben among others. He has been in "Things that Count," "Kitty's Kisses," "Lady Butterfly," "Lollipop," "Suzanne," and more recently with Beatrice Lillie in "Oh, Please."

Nick Long, Jr.

Argentina

Argentina is to return to make a second appearance in Symphony Hall on Wednesday evening, Dec. 10. This will be the last appearance of the season in Boston of the great Spanish dancer.

'RENEGADES' ON 2 SCREENS

"Renegades," now at the Modern and Beacon, and starring Warner Baxter, revolves about the personalities of four adventurers, privates in the French Foreign Legion, and an alluring woman who had earlier betrayed one of the four. Breaking out of the Legion jail, where they were incarcerated for disorderly conduct, the quartet rejoins their company and distinguish themselves in action. Later they desert.

How the renegades find themselves opposed to their former comrades when the Arabs decide to attack a lonely outpost, and the woman, trying to avenge herself on the quartet, turns a machine gun on them, forms the dramatic climax of this film.

Co-featured is "She Got What She Wanted," starring Betty Compson and Lee Tracy.

LEWIS AYRES IN CRIME FILM

Lewis Ayres, who won praise for his work in "All Quiet on the Western Front," is the star of "Doorway to Hell," film feature at the Fenway and Scollay. It is a good gangster photoplay.

Dorothy Mathews, a newcomer, excellently portrays the gun-girl who plots with her mate to lay a trap for the king of the underworld, including marriage with him, and capture of the fortune he has amassed by many crooked deals. Ayres is splendid as the racketeer.

The picture provides many thrills.

THE PEOPLE'S SYMPHONY IN CONCERT

By MOSES SMITH

The People's Symphony Orchestra, playing the second concert of the season under its new conductor, Thompson Stone, at Jordan Hall yesterday, gave its well-wishers hope that the orchestra is "coming back" after its uncertain fortunes of the past year or two.

An audience of fair size listened appreciatively to Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, which opened the program. The rendering, under Mr. Stone's baton, was of a literal inflexible character. It was as if the conductor, not yet quite sure of himself, was finding safety in simplicity. Even so, the performance was marked by fairly precise attacks. It was accurate, the ensemble was not ragged. Sometimes the strings, and often the brass, might have yielded a better quality of tone. But that, we assume, will come in time. For the present, the orchestra seems on its way to greater unanimity than it has enjoyed during much of the past.

In fact, there were more of these virtues audible in the playing of the Prelude to Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel," which seemed to have been excellently prepared, and in the performance of which the orchestra achieved a fine sonority. The orchestra also accompanied Miss Meriel G. Blanchard, soprano, who in a pleasing light voice and with ingratiating style, sang "With Verdure Clad" from Haydn's "Creation."

The second half of the program included Liszt's "Les Preludes," another aria, "Je Suis Titania" from Thomas' "Mignon" for Miss Blanchard, and "The Blue Danube Waltz" of Strauss. But this conscientious reporter hastened to Symphony Hall where Roland Hayes was giving his first concert of the season.

Aside from the fact that the audience did not quite fill the hall, this concert duplicated many a previous appearance of Hayes. There was the same moving, almost religious, fervor evident in his efforts, and there were the intent, enthusiastically applausive, listeners. The singer was vocally surer of himself, reaching his high notes with less effort than in the past.

The program included three old numbers by Caldara and Ariosti, lesser-known songs by Schubert and Schumann, two songs in French (including Saint-Saens' "Danse Macabre") and two in English, and the usual array of Negro spirituals.

Special Midnight at Howard Wednesday

On Wednesday night the Old Howard will put forth a special midnight show. La Villa Maye and the "Nite Life in Paris" company, with Charles (Tramp) McNally, will provide the program.

KEITH-BOSTON OFFERS GALA PROGRAM

Lowell Sherman, actor, again proves his superior merit over Lowell Sherman, director. The famous "heavy" of the movies does a fine job as the chief crook in "The Pay-Off," on screen at the RKO Keith Boston, but his direction shows the actor still has things to learn if he is to suceed in doing double duty in the studio.

Marion Nixon is the lass of the piece, which is the work of Samuel Shipman, a playwright with stage experience to make his film stories a little better than the ordinary run. Miss Nixon and her sweetheart, William Janney, are wrongly linked up with Mr. Sherman's gang of gem thieves. Mr. Sherman is so much in love with the young lady that he makes confession of his guilt which puts him on the road to the death cell — murder having been committed during a robbery —while Miss Nixon is freed to become a happy bride.

Despite its shortcomings, the picture makes interesting fare. But the stage show far surpasses it; the bill is a Thanksgiving week special. The topliner is a "nut comic," Roy Cummings, who is a big favorite, to judge by the applause he gets as he steps to the front.

There are other classy acts, among them Teck Murdock, assisted by Iris Kennedy, Marion Meredith, Irma Powers and Charles Randolph in an amusing sketch, "O Henry"; Leon Navara, the Black Kat Four, and the Four Ortons.

Gus Edwards' Feature Tops Scollay Bill

Representing one of the costliest of vaudeville acts, Gus Edwards presents his latest production, "The Tree Sitters," as the headline act at the Scollay today. "The Tree Sitters" is billed as an original "talkie," "single" and "funnie."

Fur Top Is New Idea in Smart Coats

By ANN ARDEN

EVERY NOW and then some fashion pops up that has such a flavor of novelty that one immediately starts looking for it on the backs of best friends! Ever since the first fur-boleroed coat appeared we have not missed a single one in shop window or on the street as we wandered about. We cogitated as to whether they would be liked, we tried them on to see if they were bulky—and finally we have decided that they can be pretty stunning when handled well.

* * *

FUR BOLEROS aren't the only fur tops, however, that the latest coats are affecting. The idea has gained momentum—couturiers are bringing out clever models that have the whole tops of the coats in the fur with the skirt parts adroitly tacked on. Take, for example, Bruyere's coat. In some models the bolero grows into a full-fledged jacket so that you have two complete garments where one only grew before! Still another model has a fur bodice and a fur border to the hem. Fur sleeves and fur yokes are so skillfully worked into the coat design that they seem more cloth than fur. This is only one of the many ways in which the 1930 coat expresses its individuality.

* * *

WE CONSIDER the town coat pictured superlatively well done; it has distinction of line and material, and amazing versatility. It is of black tweed, slightly fitted, its wide wrap closing held with belt of black calf, and topped with double collar of black caracul, which is crushed and tied at center back with loop of the tweed.

* * *

THE SEPARATE bolero jacket of black caracul has sleeves to the elbow, and is definitely a part of the coat on cold days; removed, one has a complete cloth coat, while the bolero may be doing extra duty over a frock of silk or wool.

* * *

THE HAT pictured is of black vis-a-vis (closely akin to soleil). Its upturned brim forms a Tricorn, a provocative veil of fine mesh is fastened each side, its edge dotted and stiffened with tiny wire, so the veil has an effect of blowing in the wind. The bag is black antelope, and the gloves black suede.

* * *

SEPARATE FUR topping coats is an innovation that is meeting with great success at the moment. Never was fur used with such ingenuity as this season. On sleeves, the fur, variously shaped, is brought to the elbow, sometimes puffed in muff fashion; and again the entire sleeve is of fur.

The idea has gained momentum—couturiers are bringing out clever models that have the whole tops of the coats in the fur with the skirt parts adroitly tacked on. Take, for example, Bruyere's coat. In some models the bolero grows into a full-fledged jacket so that you have two complete garments where one only grew before! Still another model has a fur bodice and a fur border to the hem. Fur sleeves and fur yokes are so skillfully worked into the coat design that they seem more cloth than fur. This is only one of the many ways in which the 1930 coat expresses its individuality.

* * *

WE CONSIDER the town coat pictured superlatively well done; it has distinction of line and material, and amazing versatility. It is of black tweed, slightly fitted, its wide wrap closing held with belt of black calf, and topped with double collar of black caracul, which is crushed and tied at center back with loop of the tweed.

* * *

THE SEPARATE bolero jacket of black caracul has sleeves to the elbow, and is definitely a part of the coat on cold days; removed, one has a complete cloth coat, while the bolero may be doing extra duty over a frock of silk or wool.

* * *

THE HAT pictured is of black vis-a-vis (closely akin to soleil). Its upturned brim forms a Tricorn, a provocative veil of fine mesh is fastened each side, its edge dotted and stiffened with tiny wire, so the veil has an effect of blowing in the wind. The bag is black antelope, and the gloves black suede.

* * *

SEPARATE FUR topping coats is an innovation that is meeting with great success at the moment. Never was fur used with such ingenuity as this season. On sleeves, the fur, variously shaped, is brought to the elbow, sometimes puffed in muff fashion; and again the entire sleeve is of fur.

Prize Turkey for Wrestling Fans on Thanksgiving Night ↕ Sonnenberg Risks Crown in Titular Bout With Sherry

Proceeds of Big Show for Christmas Fund

This is Thanksgiving Week but the sporting clans are not overlooking Christmas and the Christmas Fund of the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN. To give the sporting clans something to be thankful for Promoter Paul Bowser is serving a Thanksgiving Night [illegible] at the Arena with a world's heavyweight championship wrestling match in which Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg will defend his title against Jack Sherry, who almost toppled him off the throne a fortnight ago as the turkey, and five other matches bringing together 10 of the best known wrestlers in America as the fixings. Fifty per cent of the receipts will go to the joint Helping Hand and Christmas funds of the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN. Part of every dollar handed in at the box office will go towards helping someone who is out of a job and providing a Merry Christmas for someone who almost has forgotten what merry means.

Geo. Underwood

Almost all of us have something to be thankful for. While we are giving thanks, fellow fans, how about making someone else thankful? Just think of all the joy and thanks the the Christmas Fund brings. This year Charity is calling louder, longer, more beseeching than ever. So [illegible] is calling us all to next Thursday night's great world's heavyweight champion wrestling show in the Arena and to the great Xmas Fund boxing carnival in the Boston Garden next week. Jim Maloney, conqueror of Carnera, will crawl through the ropes against Johnny Risko, who in their last meeting knocked our Shamus colder than a banker's smile.

It isn't often you get such a wonderful chance to kill two birds with one stone—a whole flock of birds. Next Thursday night you can see a world's heavyweight championship wrestling match, help a fellow out of a job and give someone a Merry Xmas, all for the one and same price. Next week you can see a great boxing show with two of the greatest sluggers of the time exchanging potthooks, help out the unemployed and give a Merry Xmas to somebody's poor suffering mother, father or child—and all for the one, two or three dollars you pay for your ticket.

This isn't an [illegible] on. You [illegible] money. The BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN [illegible] name to [illegible] the up and up [illegible] are for [illegible] you that the first of [illegible] Fund shows, the [illegible] Arena in which [illegible] New England light-[illegible] you [illegible] many moons. Every mother's son who attended will vouch for the [illegible] the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN [illegible] came.

TWO SELLOUTS

You'll never see a more exciting night's grappling than Paul Bowser has arranged for Thanksgiving Night in the Arena.

Not in the annals of boxing has a show featured with such a drawing attraction as a return match between Jim Maloney and Johnny Risko ever been put on at popular prices. You will not have to pay five to ten dollars for a ringside seat. The top price has been set at $3 and there will be plenty of good seats at $1 and $2.

Both shows will be sell outs. Both Bowser and Alex MacLean will have to hang the "S. R. O." signs out on the nights of the shows.

We are giving you plenty of warning. So don't blame us if you wait until next Thursday night before you purchase your tickets for the Sonnenberg-Sherry world's heavyweight wrestling match and until a week from next Friday to get your tickets for the great Maloney-Risko ring duel, and find there is standing room only.

Tickets already are on sale and the time to get them is now.

Both the Sonnenberg Sherry and the Maloney-Risko bouts are what in sporting parlance is known as a "natural."

In the last match between Sonnenberg and Sherry many of the spectators thought Sherry unjustly was deprived of the world's championship. Champion and challenger each had won a fall. Jack was pressing a hot offensive and Gus was grasping the ring rope like a drowning man clutching at a straw. The referee was trying to pry open Sonnenberg's grip on the rope. In the mix up all three fell. Dynamite Gus landed on top, pinning Sherry's shoulders to the canvas and saving his own world's championship crown.

Sonnenberg left the ring with the jeers and boos of the crowd ringing in his ears. Sherry was cheered to the echo.

In credit to Sonnenberg's sportsmanship the champion agreed to give Sherry a return match at the Arena on Thanksgiving Night, but Dynamite Gus certainly would have postponed the return match with Sherry as long as he could, if the appeal of charity had not touched his heart.

After the close shave with Sherry "Sonney" claimed that the Ohio Hercules had caught him a bit out of condition. The champion has been striving to "wrestle himself into shape." In the last few days Sonnenberg beat Boris Demitroff in Worcester, George Mack in Providence and Al Baffort in Manchester. Dynamite Gus will be fit as a fiddle by Thanksgiving Night. He will have to be or there will be a new world's heavyweight champion.

BEEF ON HOOF

Supporting the Sonnenberg Sherry championship match, promoter Bowser will unload more than a ton of human pachyderms.

The giant of the lot is young Rosario Impelletere, who stands 6 feet 7 inches in his socks and tips the beam at 285 pounds. He should be a great help to his father when he grows up.

Impelletere's father is barber at West Point, and the authorities there tried hard to get Impelletere, who was a star basketball and football player, to try for a cadetship. Harry Lenny also attempted to get Impelletere into boxing but the giant young Italian-American's heart was in wrestling and he chose the mat in preference to the ring.

It looks as if Impelletere chose wisely. The youngster has had ten wrestling matches and has won them all. He was the sensation of the big charity wrestling show recently held in Madison Square Garden, New York.

On next Thursday night's

BLACKHAWKS BRUINS' FOE TOMORROW

Tiny Thompson of the Boston Bruins and Chuck Gardiner of the Chicago Blackhawks, the high ranking goalies of the last National League campaign, will have their second meeting of the season at the Garden tomorrow night when the Bruins strive to avenge the 1-0 defeat the Hawks handed them last Thursday in the Windy City. Two and one-half per cent of the proceeds will go to the Christmas Fund of the Boston Evening American.

Thompson had only 98 goals scored against him in 44 games a year ago as against the second best record of Gardiner, who was beaten for 111 goals. They represent the new generation of major league goalies. They are young, fast in the net and ready and each has a big role in the attack of his team because of well-judged passes to the lines.

Goal guarding in the National League seems to have steadily improved in recent years and judging from the record made by the Toronto team this season both Thompson and Gardiner are threatened by a young man named Lorne Chabot, who already has established a National League record of going five games without allowing a score. Roy Worters of the New York Americans is [illegible] off to a fine start and next to Chabot has the best shutout record so far this year.

Bruins and Falcons in Second Place Tie

Detroit, Nov 24—The Boston Bruins and the Detroit Falcons played to a 2 to 2 draw. The game was a nip and tuck affair throughout although only nine penalties were called.

The game left the Falcons and the Bruins tied for second place in the league, the New York Rangers taking first position through a [illegible] victory over the Philadelphia Quakers.

The West End House will hold its annual Thanksgiving Day cross-country run at 2:30 p.m. This is the first of its many big events to take place this Fall. A record entry for this event has already been handed in and more entries are expected during the few days left. Three classes are running, the seniors, intermediates, and juniors.

Three cups are donated in each division, to the first three winners, and a club trophy is given to the organization scoring highest number of points.

A TORRID SESSION is insured in the feature bout of the Argonne A. A. show tonight at the Arena when Al Friedman, Roslindale boy, clashes with Dick Daniels. Daniels is one of the most promising heavies in the game.

STARS NAMED FOR CUP TEAM

Columbus, Nov 24 — Walter Hagen of Detroit, Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, Cal., Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen of New York and Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., have been chosen for the [illegible] cup team of American golf professionals who will play the British next year. Fourteen other stars will play 72 holes to qualify for the three remaining places.

The selections were made by the directors of the P. G. A. Hagen will act as captain, as he led the successful invasion of England in 1929. He and the four others named were considered the only pros sufficiently outstanding to be chosen outright.

The other 14 must attempt to qualify on the Monday and Tuesday preceding the Ryder cup matches, which are to be held June 26 and 27.

Shamrocks Win

Haverhill, Nov. 24—The Haverhill Shamrocks defeated the Haverhill pros 16 to 6 in a fast game played before 5000 fans at St. James High Stadium here.

Hot Off the Gridiron

By the Associated Press

New York—The football season of the East fades out rapidly this week. Only four really important games are on the Thanksgiving Day schedule and, although Eastern teams engage in seven major contests next Saturday, three of them will be played at various places in the West and two more will bring Western teams East.

Pittsburgh—Although records for their teams of recent years would not indicate such a big margin, it is an unusual thing for Carnegie Tech to beat Washington and Jefferson in their annual clash. Saturday's game is the 17th and so far Carnegie can boast only two victories and four ties.

Reading, Pa.—Albright had more than the satisfaction of stopping Western Maryland's great string of victories with Saturday's 7-7 tie. The result also brought revenge for a beating inflicted in 1928, the start of the Terrors' streak of 20 straight wins.

New York—Columbia has beaten Syracuse only once in the nine times they have met for a big Thanksgiving battle and tied one more, but the Lions always have made it a close battle. The widest margin in the series was when Syracuse won the 1918 game 20 to 0.

West Point, N. Y.—Notre Dame was only a small college in a football way when it started playing Army but the Cadets have learned since then that it could turn out some big teams. The teams have met 16 times so far and when they play the 17th clash Saturday, Army will be seeking its fifth victory.

New Brunswick, N. J.—Only six Rutgers lettermen ended their football careers in the New York University game Saturday, leaving the Scarlet hopeful for a good team next year. One of them was Bert Harris, star placement kicker, but Jack Grossman, who scored most of the touchdowns for which Harris added the extra points, is left.

BROWN READY FOR COLGATE

Providence, Nov 24—Brown is all set for their annual battle with Colgate in their 15th meeting since 1908 on Thanksgiving morning.

The game has every mark of a "natural" and indications of interest point to the largest crowd to see a grid game in Providence since the famous "Iron Team" met Colgate in 1926.

The stage is all set for the coming of the big Maroon team, and Brown and Colgate will top off their preparation for the tilt on the same field, Wednesday afternoon.

Eagles Win From Arrows by 2-0

New Haven, Nov 24—The New Haven Eagles defeated the Philadelphia Arrows 2-to-0.

In three starts the Eagles achieved their first success of the Can-Am season by checking an Arrow attack.

Dick Daniels, Minneapolis heavyweight, will make a stout-hearted effort to continue his run of victories in Boston rings when he clashes with Al Friedman of Roslindale in a ten-round bout at the Arena tonight, under the direction of the Argonne A. A.

Daniels has engaged in two local matches. He won from Marty Gallagher and then received the duke over Johnny Risko in a bout that ended in a foul. Daniels and Risko were blazing away with both hands when the contest ended.

Jack Conway

Daniels is 22 years of age and, in the opinion of this writer, one of the most promising heavyweights in the country. What I like most about Daniels, in addition to his youth, is the fact he can punch. He does his heavy execution with his right hand.

When Dick slams his right to his opponent's jaw, the latter usually hits the canvas.

Mike Collins, who managed Mike and Tom Gibbons, is piloting Daniels. Mike is convinced that Daniels will batter his way out front in the heavyweight division.

Daniels is fortunate in having such an experienced handler of boxers as Collins in charge of his ring destinies. He may be sure that Mike will give him the best possible advice and use keen judgment in making matches.

Friedman and Daniels Collided in West

It will be the second time Daniels and Friedman have met. Their previous tussle was staged in Minneapolis where no official decisions are permitted. After the bout, the sports writers were divided as to

Walsh May Succeed Stevens as Yale Football Coach

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

ELI MENTOR HAS FAILED IN TASK

By BILL GRIMES

Arnold Horween wound up his coaching career at Harvard in a blaze of glory last Saturday in the Yale Bowl. Although the Crimson lost many minor games under Horween, they came through with three victories in five starts against Yale.

Bill Grimes

And despite stories to the contrary, wins over Yale are the only worthwhile events from a Harvard viewpoint. Naturally, Harvard would like to come out on the top of the heap against all opponents but Yale is the one game they figure they must win.

A Harvard coach's success is measured by his wins or losses over Eli Yale.

For three successive years Horween upset the dope in Yale games. In fact Harvard did not have any logical right to beat the Blue in any one of the last three conflicts. Individually and collectively, Yale has been much stronger that the Crimson for three years, but they have lost each game and have only crossed the Harvard goal line once.

Against the mediocre talent at Cambridge this Fall, Yale had an abundance of material. Their backfield and line was far superior to that of Harvard. Also the replacements at New Haven were vastly superior in numbers and ability.

Stevens Responsible for Yale Defeats

Yet, Harvard won by two touchdowns.

What is the answer?

Head Coach Mal Stevens.

For three years, Yale has played an entirely unsound defense against Harvard. And Stevens and Stevens alone, is responsible for Yale's actions on the field of play.

Some critics are so bold as to blame Tad Jones, whom they claim is the real head coach at Yale. Jones retired from active coaching three years ago and he recommended Stevens to be his successor. As Jones is in the background, Stevens must "take the rap."

Before Saturday's game Stevens was very nervous while Horween was cool and apparently confident that the Crimson would again break through with a victory.

The attitude of the respective coaches may have had an important bearing on the outcome of the game.

Arnie was in a very jovial mood for almost a week before the Yale game. On Friday, he was jubilant, devoting most of the time on the way to New Haven to kidding Eddie Casey, who made his debut as a radio announcer that evening.

Stevens was irritable and worried the day before the game.

Under Stevens, Yale has played three dumb games against Harvard. From the inside at New Haven comes the information the Eli coach has not been a success as a judge of football talent. Better players have been side-tracked for inferior ones.

For instance, Charlie Heim, who out-Boothed Booth in the Harvard game, was not taken up to the Blue squad until mid season and Backman, of the second team, never got a chance.

But Stevens' slips in judgment are nothing by comparison to his selection of defenses to be used against the Crimson.

It was well known generally that Harvard's running attack lacked a punch, their lateral pass was stripped of everything but a threat and therefore Harvard would take to the air.

Yet, Yale opened with a diamond defense and wound up with a 7-1 formation, with Booth playing from 15 to 17 yards back of the line of scrimmage.

Although Stevens has signed to coach Yale for next season, he will step out of the picture as soon as Adam Walsh, former Notre Dame captain, receives his post graduate degree from Yale.

FRIEDMAN AND DANIELS CLASH

whether Daniels or Friedman had the better of the milling.

Friedman has always been a satisfactory performer. Al may never be a champion, but it cannot be denied that he always gives action every time he steps to bat.

Daniels will receive a guarantee of $2250 and a 25 per cent privilege for tonight's bout while Friedman will pull down 20 per cent of the gate.

There will be three six-round bouts. Ouonne Piazza will clash with Bobby Brown. Werthers Arcola will take on Frank Herlihy of Lynn, while Pete Herman will oppose Vernon Cormier.

The four-rounders will bring together Danny Regan of Gardner and Pat Hayward of Philadelphia, Pat Perkins and Ug Gibson, and Laddie Lee and Ray Lopez.

Lincolns Hold Wilsons to Tie

The Wilson A. C. and the Lincoln A. C. of Brighton battled to a scoreless tie before a record crowd at Murray's Park, leaving the championship of Brighton still undecided.

Although the Wilson machine was outweighed in practically every position, they outplayed the Lincolns and kept them on edge throughout the entire game.

The Wilsons had the pigskin within scoring distance of the Lincoln's upright early in the third period due to the fine ball carrying of Frankie Maloney, B. C. frosh star, and Teddy Bowne, ex-Brighton High flash, but the Lincoln eleven tightened and received the oval on downs on their own five yard stripe.

Joe Kellar, Wilson flashy end, broke up the Lincoln interference and smeared many plays behind the line of scrimmage. Kellar played the best game of his career.

Jack Conway Picks Daniels to Win Over Friedman

Jack Conway today picked Dick Daniels to win from Al Friedman in their ten-round bout at the Arena tonight.

"You will like this youngster Daniels once you have seen him in action," said Jack. "He is as natural a right-hand puncher as there is in the heavyweight division. He is only 22 years of age and is improving with each start. Make no mistake about the Mike Collins entry. He is going somewhere in the heavyweight division."

Former All-America Halfback at Princeton

With the Harvard-Yale wrangle written into the records and a precious victory chalked up by the stalwart wearers of the crimson, the stage is now set for what seems quite certain of being the most fiery and furious football fray hereabouts in this 1930 season—the Boston College-Holy Cross meeting at Fenway Park on Saturday.

After witnessing the Harvard-Holy Cross clash two weeks ago and seeing the Crusaders lambast old John Harvard to the tune of 27-0, it appeared that Holy Cross, with a versatile running and passing offense cooked up by Coach John McEwan, would be just about two touchdowns in front of the Eagles in their coming classic.

B. C. Showed Power in Win Over B. U.

But this general estimate has changed.

After getting a glimpse of Boston College's decisive triumph over Boston University the past week-end it now becomes apparent that B. C. possesses an offense and defense and has a great power in its reserve strength, which attributes will afford the Crusaders plenty of food for thought as well as a flock of worries in preparing for the impending struggle.

The Terrier eleven was an inferior outfit compared to B. C., but the intown boys fought every inch of the way on the Fenway turf and offered the McKenney men a sturdy battle before succumbing to the tidal wave of 47 points.

Only Dartmouth was able to exceed the Eagle supremacy in the matter of points in scoring a victory over Boston University. Although comparative scores do not mean a great deal, Boston College's win over B. U. indicates that the Eagles have the punch to push over scores on opponents for they they also romped through the Georgetown defenses for 19 points.

Even though the opponent be one of the calibre of Holy Cross, B. C. has got a drive that is bound to register if it clicks as it did against the fighting B. U. squad and Georgetown.

Eagle Defense Proves to Be Strong

Boston College proved its defensive strength and stubbornness in the shadow of its own goal posts while going down to defeat before Fordham, Villanova and Marquette. The margin of victories by these three opponents totalled but 15 points.

In the Georgetown struggle which B. C. lost by one point the Eagle offense started to show. The Maroon and Gold barrage, it can be said, is versatile and powerful enough to cause the Crusaders all they can wish in one afternoon of play.

Against the Terriers the first B. C. lineup, without such strong members as Buckley, Dixon and Bennett, was powerful enough to ring up, with the capable aid of the reserves, the biggest total of any team which has crushed B. U. this season with the exception of Dartmouth.

One very strong point was brought out in Saturday's pushover against B. U. McKenney's athletes are stronger in the running department than in the aerial game. Although Colbert, the B. C. field general, is a good forward pass tosser, B. C.'s power plays are her best assets. On the other hand, Holy Cross had reached a higher state of development in their aerial maneuvers.

The O'Connell-to-Baker combination possesses finer application than the Wood-to-Huguley merger which sent Yale down to defeat. It will be interesting to see in this coming classic between the Eagles and Crusaders, which offense is the stronger scoring weapon.

Holy Cross, undoubtedly has a margin in passing while B. C. carries the edge in the running attacks.

The result of Saturday's B. C.-H. C. game should give a final answer.

New York, Nov. 24—Harvar[illegible] performance [illegible] day probably was the most surpr[illegible]. Two forward [illegible] thrown by Barry Wood into the [illegible] Art Huguley made the Harvard season a complete suc[illegible] tion that they would as soon [illegible] test could be won.

Rockne brought his team along in fine style and without Savoldi, who doubtless would have made a difference of another 14 points, proved conclusively that Notre Dame is the best eleven playing football this year, and perhaps the best team that ever has played together.

In the East Fordham established itself as one of the leading teams by defeating Bucknell 12 to 0. Prior to this game Bucknell had gone through the season with only two defeats, and each by one point.

The contest closed the career of Tony Siano, Maroon captain for the two years of Fordham's triumphant march.

Sherry Is Even Bet to Win

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

'SONNY' MAY LOSE MAT CROWN

By RINGSIDE

Jack Sherry, [illegible] state wrestling champion, has been made an even money betting proposition for his [illegible] title bout with Gus Sonnenberg, which will be held at the New Boston Arena on Thanksgiving night by Paul Bowser.

It is the first time since Sonny lifted the title by defeating Strangler Lewis at the Boston Garden that his opponent has been [illegible] on even terms [illegible] by the speculative element.

This is due to the sensational showing Sherry made against Sonnenberg in their last bout. Each had scored a fall and it looked as though Sherry was going to win the championship when interference by [illegible] saved Gus' championship.

Sherry outwrestled Sonnenberg. He also proved that Gus has difficulty in getting away from headlocks. It was headlocks which enabled Sherry to score a fall. Additional headlocks had Gus in distress at the time the unfortunate ending of the bout [illegible].

Sherry [illegible] training at Boom[illegible] since last Thursday. He is in splendid condition and confident he will leave the ring champion of the world on Thanksgiving Night.

Sonnenberg has also been working at a local gym. Gus realizes his back against the wall and that he will have to come through with an amazing exhibition of skill and strength if he is to retain his title.

Capacity Crowd Will See Arena Bout

Paul Bowser expects a capacity crowd will jam the Arena to see the bout. The fact it looks as though a world's championship is about to change hands has the public steamed up. Every sports follower wants to be at the ringside when a world's champion is [illegible] from his throne.

Maloney Getting Ready for Go With Risko

Jim Maloney has opened a training camp at Quincy, where he is getting ready for his ten-round bout with Johnny Risko, which will be staged at the Boston Garden on Dec. 5. It will be Maloney's first start since he scored his sensational win over Primo Carnera. The fact Maloney [illegible] rounds in his [illegible] with Risko has caused Shamus to step on the gas in his training workouts.

BANTAM GOLF

JOE CASHMAN

Claude Davidson's theatrical night at the Hotel Bradford course every Wednesday evening is the best advertising stunt yet conceived by a bantam magnate. Standing room on the fifth floor of the hostelry is at a premium when the stage stars are performing and most of the spectators sooner or later acquire a desire to play the course.

* * *

Most course owners insist that it is the trick stuff that attracts the customers, but few courses are as popular or prosperous as the Braves Field layout, the nearest thing to a legitimate links in these parts.

* * *

On the other hand, the Gigantic, in Allston, and the Rite Way in Cambridge, where trick holes are featured, are also playing to packed houses nightly.

Another thing which attracts them to the Gigantic is Major Batts the jolliest, most genial links manager in captivity.

Apparently the fans aren't greatly interested in the construction of a layout, providing they feel that they are receiving their money's worth.

* * *

The best features of the various Greater Boston courses will be incorporated in the new Franklin Field layout, which will soon be opened. This management believes in giving the public the very best even before it learns whether or no business will be good.

* * *

Just the opposite is the method which is being followed by the Boston Garden management. A course is being constructed in the exhibition hall at the Garden. It will be rough when it is first open to the public. If the patronage warrants, it will be improved.

* * *

Which is the better method to follow, we can't say. Time, however, should tell.

* * *

This column is open to all course managements and fans for anything of real interest pertaining to bantam golf. Write on one side of the paper and write clearly and legibly.

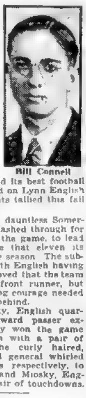
SCHOOLBOYS READY FOR WIND-UP

By BILL CONNELL

With all-scholastic honors and final victories dangling just ahead, the schoolboys open their last mad scramble of this football season, with the Thanksgiving Day battles as the main objectives.

Medford at Malden, Rindge Tech at Somerville, Beverly at Salem, Lowell and Lawrence, and the Lynn schools, Classical and English, line up in battle array on Thursday morning for their annual Turkey day conflicts.



Bill Connell

Lynn English, unbeaten this year, prepares for its game with Classical after its hardest fight of the season, with Somerville on Saturday at Lynn. A superb Somerville eleven that played its best football of the year scored on Lynn English for the first points tallied this fall against English.

In addition the dauntless Somervilians boldly smashed through for the first tally of the game, to lead English and give that eleven its worst scare of the season. The subsequent battle, with English having the final edge, proved that the team is not merely a front runner, but also has the bulldog courage needed to bring it from behind.

George Moriarty, English quarterback and forward passer extraordinary, really won the game for Lynn English with a pair of passes, which the curly haired, stocky little field general whirled 30 and 45 yards respectively, to Herman Hussey and Miosky, English ends, for a pair of touchdowns.

Somerville Eleven Played Fine Game

The reliable Tony Geniawicz played his usual fine game, though he was checked by Somerville so that he was unable to do any long gaining. Art Jannell, English speed king, raced 25 yards once for the longest advance on a rush by any of his team.

Although Somerville was beaten the work of its well drilled eleven showed the effects of the teaching of Coach Charley Dickerman and indicated also that Rindge Tech will have a difficult session on Thursday when it attempts to halt Somerville's windup bid for the championship of the Suburban league.

Lynn Classical, a lightweight eleven, outplayed Marblehead to win on Saturday. This Classical team, for its weight, is one of the best groups of Greater Boston. For a couple of periods at least it can give Lynn English trouble on Thursday.

Dave Dillon's Cathedral high team of the South End crushed Immaculate Conception high of Revere to win its first Catholic high school football league championship. The victory gives Cathedral the coveted Cardinal O'Connell trophy.

Salem high conquered Newburyport but lost Norman Rand for the Thursday game with Beverly because of a leg injury. "The greatest halfback I ever coached," was Bill Broderick's comment, as he learned that Rand would be out for the year, and forever as far as Salem is concerned.

Everett Schedule Badly Arranged

Everett lost a hard game to Proviso high of Chicago by a one point margin. Everett showed an improved attack, however, and it awaits its game with Cambridge Latin on Thursday, confident of winding up its badly arranged schedule with a win over the Cantabs.

Six games in 24 days was the diet of Everett, this year, not to mention the other games on the schedule. That kind of a stretch is too much for any team, school or college.

Boston College high wound up a successful season with a conquest of Peabody. Benny Murray sent his Norwood team to a win over Needham; Wakefield whitewashed Reading, and Stoneham rolled over Walpole for its seventh straight win of the year. Brockton, with the versatile Peter Pileski grabbing a large share of the laurels, rambled over the Quincy high team to a 19-0 victory.

Rindge Tech beat New Bedford. And Tony Sarnusky of Rindge, with Vito Ananis receiving passes, completed nine out of 14 attempts. One week ago the same combination was responsible for 18 passes completed out of 20 tries; 27 passes successful out of 34 attempted. If that isn't some kind of a two-game record for the year it will do until a better one is produced.

And that very wild aerial attack gives Rindge hope in its game with Somerville on Thursday. After a hard fight with Lynn English on Saturday it is probable that the Somerville team will not have re-

Almost every type of musical entertainment from the "blues" to the classics has been arranged in a special program for the fourth anniversary presentation of station WLAC, the Nashville, Tenn., link of the Columbia chain. The program will be heard in a CBS hookup at 11 o'clock tonight and WNAC will carry the program.

The WLAC Vagabonds, who will open the program with "Sittin' On a Rainbow"; Jimmie Gallagher's Andrew Jackson Hotel orchestra and the WLAC Salon orchestra will form the background for offerings of solo, duet, trio and quartet vocalists. The famous Fisk Jubilee Singers will be heard as guest artists and will perform the much-loved negro spirtual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," as an inclusive touch to the musical array.

His Excellency Henry H. Horton, governor of Tennessee, and A. M. Burton, president of the Life and Casualty Insurance Company, which owns and operates the station, will make brief congratulatory addresses.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

It is Monday, as you are perfectly aware, and we resume our tasks after the brief respite from cares which the Sabbath affords us, with a little cheer. Not a loud, reverberating huzza to make the welkin ring but more in the nature of an inward, heart-prompted cry of thankfulness, that we have tasks to undertake and health which permits of their execution.

Upon our desk are reams of paper, covered with facts and fancies pertaining to the radio world. From Maine to far-off California comes propaganda of every description, sent with the hope that the typed or printed word may contain some message which will be presented to your gaze through the medium of printer's ink.

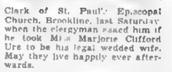
We could find it within our heart to acknowledge in type every request for publicity but hardly could we find space within our section to do so. We must content ourself with choosing from here and there small items which we believe will be of interest to you—at least we hope they are worthy of your attention—and consign the remainder to our files.

Of considerable importance is the notice from station WNAC that John Shepard, 3d, has completed negotiations with the Television station WIXAV, the only station of its kind in New England, whereby WNAC will be enabled to present to its great audience a daily television broadcast, the first joint program of which begins today. These broadcasts will originate at the studio of WIXAV on Brookline ave.

It will interest the numerous listeners-in of WEEI program to learn that "The Cap'n and the Widder," O'Leary's Irish Minstrels, Bud Peters and Jack Francis, Maud Erickson and "E. F. A." are among the radio headliners to be seen and heard at Gilbert Stuart Hall, Dorchester Lower Mills, this evening.

As further tribute to Mickie Alpert and his Columbia broadcasting orchestra, which has gained no inconsiderable popularity of late, comes the announcement that the Boston band has won recognition as ranking well up on the plane with Paul Whiteman, Ted Lewis and other such orchestras and left yesterday for New York, where they are to record four of the outstanding jazz hits for Columbia records.

Apparently even a radio engineer can pull his head down out of the ether long enough to mutter "I do" before a clergyman after Cupid has worked on is what Haney Morris Smith, engineer at WBZ-WBZA, gurgled to the Rev. William Lothrop Clark of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Brookline, last Saturday when the clergyman asked him if he took Miss Marjorie Clifford Ure to be his legal wedded wife. May they live happily ever afterwards.



YOU ARE NOW HOOKED UP FOR LIFE!

According to Robert S. Thornburgh, in an INS dispatch, the Army-Navy football game and other post-season grid contests will prove what is considered a "life-saver" for the radio industry because of the stimulation in the sale of receiving sets.

Another game to be staged for the benefit of the unemployed attracting wide interest and therefore a radio sales stimulator, will be the Notre Dame All Star-New York Giant battle, which will bring together many big football giants of the last few years.

"From Foreign Lands," an orchestral suite by Moskowski, strikes the keynote on the Stromberg-Carlson program heard over WBZA at 10 tonight. Soloist on the program is Alexander Leventon, concert master of the Rochester Civic Orchestra, who will play on the violin, "A Dream," by Wagner.

One of the best women writers in America, Zona Gale, worthy winner of the Pulitzer Prize in 1920 for her novel, "Miss Lulu Bett," will greet radio listeners of WLOE at 9.45 tonight. Miss Gale, a graduate of the U of Wisconsin, and at present a member of the board of regents at that university, is best known for her "Preface to a Life," "Yellow Gentians and Blue" and "Borgia." She is visiting Boston on a lecture tour, and it is in this capacity that she will speak over WLOE.

Superceding the Brigadiers tonight is the world famous Kedroff Quartet, representing one of the highest achievements of Russian vocal music, who will be heard on the General Motors Family Party, WEEI at 9 30.

DRIVER BURNS TO DEATH PINNED IN AUTO

Wilda Has a Dream, So Does Her Mother

By MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 19[illegible])

WILDA GARDNER—winging her way on slim, sure feet through home-going crowds that thronged the streets of Boston on this rainy summer evening—looked like a feminine edition of the young Mercury, or one of those lithe and graceful maidens sculptured in action in some old Greek frieze or monument.

But Wilda—at 22—was very much alive and modern. And tonight—even if it was wet—the blood was pulsing through her veins, and it almost seemed as though sparks were flying from her 10 fingers and 10 toes with the very joy of living!

Because . . . because . . . Wasn't the one and only man she'd ever given a thought to (thousands of thoughts, of late! . . . 't'were idle to deny it) calling for her at the shabby little house which was her home—and Gracie's—and escorting her to hear some bigwig explorer dissertate?

It wasn't anticipation of the lecture — nor the rain — that had brought that lovely color into Wilda's usually pale cheeks. It was the vision of a face—a rugged, irregular sort of face that defied all the canons of accepted male beauty—yet to this girl not even Adonis himself, had he appeared, was handsomer.

When Logan Townsend smiled, it seemed as though all the stars came out and bells played and fairies danced and the world was sheer enchantment and happiness.

That Smile of His Girls All Like It

And those frosty blue eyes of his, that could look so stern, would suddenly change to lamps that lit his whole face up, softening and irradiating it . . . as though all the fineness of his heart were transmogrified to light that warmed this Wilda's path, shining from his dear blue eyes just like Aladdin's Lamp to waft her to what magic caves of happiness?

But he hadn't "spoken" yet. No, not even though he had that shade of auburn hair that is supposed to denote impulsiveness. A redhead—maybe with a dash of Scotch ancestry? — which meant caution

A disturbing factor, too, was that other girls found that rare smile of his — even his aloofness—charming. Provoking, too. It put them on their mettle.

Bess Avery, for instance—that little blonde vamp, who was a stenographer quite close to Logan's office. In her own "artless" fashion — (which meant constant plotting) she would waylay him half a dozen times a week, run through the whole gamut of her bag of tricks, "faint, yet pursuing," as the Scriptures say, but never permitting herself to be disheartened.

"Bess is the kind of bonehead that never knows when she's defeated," one of her friends remarked to Wilda once.

Wilda contrived a smile—nonchalantly.

But she was anxious. When he could pick and choose like that—not necessarily Bess, but lots of other girls, some better educated, or better looking, or better off than herself, or all three things at once—girls whom his aloof, unconscious charm (oh! he had oceans of charm) penetrated, no wonder she, quite ordinary Wilda Gardner, was nervous and uneasy!

Mrs. George T. Angell Is Dead at 91

WAS WIDOW OF S.P.C.A. FOUNDER

She Aided in Organization of Great Animal Humane Body and Carried on the Work

Mrs. George T. Angell, widow of the founder of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, died today at her apartment, 407 Huntington ave., Back Bay, at the age of 91.

Mrs. Angell had been ill three weeks but enjoyed unusually good health until that time. She had been a director of the society since the death of her husband in 1909 and before that was his constant adviser and companion in his humane work.

Her only surviving relatives are Mrs. Lillian Jones Will of Newton and Mrs. Reuben Abbott of Brookline, nieces.

TWICE WEDDED.

Three weeks ago she suffered a shock. Death came at 8 15 today.

Mrs. Angell was born Sept. 13, 1840, at Northfield. Her maiden name was Eliza A. Mattoon.

She was married first to Charles Martin of Nahant and a few years after his death met the founder of the society that has reduced cruelty in animals to a low minimum.

Their wedding took place Nov. 7, 1872, little more than four years after the founding of the society in March, 1868.

In the early days, she was a constant worker with her husband, aiding him in the fight against the adversities confronting the new work.

Later the couple organized the American Humane Education Society, a national organization, of which she was a director.

GREAT INTEREST IN WORK.

Angell's death on June 16, 1909, was a decided blow to her, but she took active part in carrying on his work until her illness. The day before she was stricken she walked the half mile to and from Angell Memorial hospital which was dedicated in honor of her husband.

Her philosophy on life was demonstrated in an interview on her last birthday, in September, in her statement: "Think of others and you will be happy."

She reviewed the work of the society on that day and said one of her chief interests was the Post-office sq. drinking fountain for horses.

The meeting was in conjunction with the organization's campaign to raise funds for the facilitation of the constructive and idealistic work of the Chalutzim, the indomitable Jewish pioneers in Palestine.

Making the Most of Today's Dollar

Machine Age Makes Search for Real Values Doubly Important

(The fourth of a series of interviews with Massachusetts women leaders, giving their suggestions to those who buy goods and to those who sell them concerning their mutual and vital problem of receiving and giving full value in every particular for every dollar spent. The fifth interview will appear in the next issue of the Evening American.)

By MRS. MARY G. THOMPSON

President Women's Trade Union League

WHEN WE see skilled labor replaced by machinery we find a situation that explains public dissatisfaction with some manufactured goods today.

People are just beginning to realize what the machine age has done to us. A few have controlled the destiny of thousands. These thousands, deprived of their jobs, have very little buying capacity now.

There should have been a reorganization of industry and redistribution of labor long ago. Now the thing is ahead of us.

A machinist is no longer a skilled mechanic—he is a specialist, working on one operation in the entire process of manufacture. He can be replaced by a boy at lower wage.

MARY G. THOMPSON

In the upholstery trade skilled men find themselves section workers while boys perform simple operations and gradually take on other operations at lower wages, until they finally replace the skilled man. The quality of the product suffers. The men have no hope of getting wages comparable to those they got ten years ago.

What happens when working people try to adjust expenditures to fit their incomes now?

We have for so long been accustomed to having to pay high prices for goods that now when we see things advertised as cheap we unthinkingly buy, with the feeling that even if it is not up to the mark it is not much loss anyway. Unwittingly we are wasteful, for in the long run the really good article is sane economy.

If we knew how to discern value we can now get really good quality at low prices. I saw neckties that are really worth $1.50 selling for 69 cents, and others worth less than 69 cents have been sold for $1.

We must not jump at the cheapness of a thing offered, but look for its worth.

Occasionally when a woman, trying to economize, protests about the service that a medium-priced or cheap article has given, some people dismiss the complaint with "What do you expect for a dollar?" We have a right to expect a full dollar's worth for a dollar, and responsible merchants respect this demand.

(44 cash prizes, aggregating $550, are offered to college attendants, members of the Women's Trade Union League, retail store employes and office workers, for the best, brief letters commenting on any ten articles in this series. For further information write the Shopping Economics Editor, care of the Evening American, 5 Winthrop Sq.)

Dismissal of Margaret Connolly Is Heard in Meeting With Labor Heads

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best of an event news tip received, $10 for the next best, $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

Boston Man Gets $900 Pain From 'Headache' Victim

The overworked "headache powder" film flam cost Manuel Karabariacs of West Newton st. $900, it was revealed in municipal court today, but restored his confidence Saturday in the security of banks.

Manuel was fleeced by two men when he gave his roll as security for his return from a trip for aspirin when one of his new companions pleaded illness.

He met one of the men in Stuart st. Saturday and was talked into showing the stranger to Huntington ave. The latter said he was a stranger but had just received $15,000 from a civil suit.

After they started the two met a confederate who took the role of third stranger and asked the same directions. He was invited along, but the trio hadn't gone far when the winner of the "suit" was taken sick.

Karabariacs was given money to get aspirin and turned over his $900 to insure his return. The other two disappeared.

Frank Tiro of Blue Hill ave., Dorchester, was arrested as one of the men on description and later the identification by Karabariacs. He was held in bonds of $5000 by Judge Zottoli for a hearing Dec. 3.

Special Officer Frank Bombach of the Joy st. station told the court Tiro is wanted in Brockton, Port[illegible] and Bridgeport, Conn., on similar charges.

1000 JOBLESS SEEK WORK FOR THANKSGIVING

Approach of Holiday Season Makes Employment Even More Imperative

(If you have an odd job to be done, or work for one or more men or women in office, store, factory or other business enterprise, call the Municipal Employment Bureau, Liberty 8607, or mail the coupon to 25 Church st., Boston.)

Thanksgiving week opened today with nearly 1000 applicants for work crowding the Municipal Employment Bureau on Church st.

With the opening of the office there were about two score jobs to give out to needy men and women, but Director Shields hoped for a rush of offers of work before the day ended.

He made a special appeal today for work this week, because of the holiday, fearing its approach might distract the attention of the people of Greater Boston from the distress of the unemployed, instead of inspiring them to provide jobs.

"This is the time of year when the people should help more than ever," he said. "It is also the period when discouragement, through failure to find work, is multiplied by the thoughts of Thanksgiving and Christmas.

"These men and women who come to the bureau every day asking work, offering experience and full qualifications in return, are not asking something for nothing and are willing to give their best in full measure in exchange for the few dollars that odd jobs would bring them.

"Our telephone ringing or remaining silent in the office here with offers of employment means just the difference between hope and encouragement on the one hand, and black despair on the other, for these needy people.

"For every one that gets a job there are scores that are not so fortunate, and that is why I appeal once more to the people of this metropolitan district, which comprises nearly 2,000,000 persons, to give thought to our unemployed. Please help now."

'ART' HUGULEY'S FATHER IS HUNTED AS DESERTER BY SECOND WIFE

ROMANCE IN MEXICO ALL COOLED OFF

Present Wife Says He Doubts if Divorce He Engineered to Get Her Is Legal

While thousands of frenzied spectators rocked the Yale Bowl in thunderous tribute to "Art" Huguley, Harvard hero of the victory over Old Eli Saturday, sheriffs searched through the crowds with warrants for the arrest of his father, it was revealed today.

Complaints charging Arthur W. Huguley, Sr., with desertion and non-support had been sworn out Friday by his present wife, the former Mrs. Gladys Burt von Frankenburg, now the sole occupant of the Huguley estate in Stamford Ct.

Detective Sergt. Thewles and other Stamford detectives bought themselves tickets for the Harvard-Yale game. They knew that Huguley was proud of the boy upon whom Harvard based its hopes and assumed that he would be there to cheer him in the last game of his brilliant football career.

COULDN'T FIND FATHER

But the senior Huguley was not found though detectives followed his son after he had made the two touchdowns that brought victory to Harvard. They shadowed the boy during rest periods and after the game, in the hope his father would come to congratulate him.

The story of Huguley's marital difficulties began two years ago when he participated in a conference attended by himself, his present wife and her then husband, H. T. von Frankenburg, wealthy textile manufacturer of Park ave., New York city.

At this conference Mrs. von Frankenburg informed her husband she wanted her freedom; that another had won her affections and that she was leaving.

Von Frankenburg is said to have agreed, and in due course a divorce was obtained.

WEDDING AFTER DIVORCE.

Immediately after that Huguley and his first wife, Mrs. May Huguley, mother of the football star, went to Mexico and obtained a divorce. Mrs. von Frankenburg was there and as soon as the decree went through she and Huguley were married in Mexico.

Since that time the first Mrs. Huguley has made her home with her son in Swampscott.

The rift between Huguley and his second wife resulted, according to the latter, from the disapproval of their marriage often expressed by Mrs. Ernest Howes of Cohasset, sister of the elder Huguley.

The second Mrs. Huguley charged that Mrs. Howes refused to recognize her brother's second marriage or to receive his new wife.

QUESTIONS FIRST DIVORCE

This constant disapproval, according to the second Mrs. Huguley, so acted upon his imagination that he became dissatisfied. He contended they were not legally married because a Mexican divorce is not recognized here.

One month ago Huguley left his Stamford home. His wife stayed on for several weeks, then made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Maxwell, also of Stamford.

After her departure Huguley returned with private detectives, took her car, her calling cards and her Boston bull dog, she charges.

SISTER SEEKS LOST BROTHER

Miss Alice Crowley, 25, of Edgewood st., Roxbury, appealed to Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley today to find her brother whom she hasn't seen since he was two years old.

Twenty-two years ago, Miss Crowley stated, she and her brother Edward lived with their parents in Roxbury. Their parents died, and Alice was taken by an aunt who lived in Hudson. Edward was taken by the State authorities and since then his sister has heard nothing from him.

A friend in Worcester communicated with Alice telling her that her brother was dead, but the sister refused to believe. She appealed to a priest and an immediate check of State records followed.

Records disclosed that from the ages of 5 to 11 Edward was cared for by a Mrs. McDonald of Silver st., Quincy. Then there is a lapse of five years, and the trail was picked up when Edward reached the age of 16. He was sent by state officials to the State School in Wrentham, where he was graduated at the age of 22. He then disappeared from sight.

"Edward probably doesn't know he has a sister," said Miss Crowley. "The only description I have is that he has blue eyes, blond hair, slim build, very active, and has a beautiful tenor voice. The happiest Thanksgiving of my life would come with his finding."

Uninvited Guests Are Like Lonely Wolves

By WINIFRED BLACK

IN HE walked as cool as a cucumber—the Uninvited Guest.

We were having rather a good time when the Uninvited Guest arrived.

The Grand Opera Manager was telling me about the Great Stars, and their temperaments, and their tempers.

Winifred Black

And we were having a lovely time feeling worldly and knowing and superior.

Did any of us ever grab up a chair and try to [illegible] someone over the head with it?

Why, the very idea!

But we do love to hear about people who did it. Oh, how we love to hear about it!

We sat on the edge of our chairs and licked our lips, and said, "Well, for goodness sake—and she such a sweet Marguerite, and he such a lovely Faust."

And just in the midst of everything when we were going to hear a terrible scandal about the popular tenor, and the lady who sold cough drops in the foyer—in walked the Uninvited Guest.

The Opera Manager put his emotional finger on his all too interesting lips, and we knew we must hear no more—not then at any rate.

So the Politician had his inning.

But the Uninvited Guest was too eager to get names and dates, so the Man in Politics suddenly began to talk about the weather.

The Novelist then took the floor and we heard all about the strange fads of Editors and publishers.

How One Editor would never publish a story with a dog in it anywhere—even just giving one solitary bark.

"Who was that Editor?" he said, "I didn't quite catch the name."

And Editors and Publishers became as foam on the vanishing wave.

Then the Uninvited Guest had his chance.

His specialty is road building and he wanted to talk about that.

So he did talk about it—for half an hour without an instant's pause, save when he took a second or so to catch a feverish breath.

The Guests began to remember other engagements, and it was not long till they were all gone.

"Bright lot," said the Uninvited Guest. "Do tell me all about them, the Woman with the Eyes; she looks like Someone, who is she anyway?"

I did not hear the question—that is I did not seem to hear it.

"Who's the thin man with the bald head?" said the Uninvited Guest.

"Oh," said I, "there is the telephone!" I went in the house and did not come out on the porch again until the Uninvited Guest had gone.

This is the third time the Uninvited Guest has come to the party.

I wish someone would tell me the proper technique on an occasion like that.

What do you do with Uninvited Guests anyhow?

And why don't they realize that if you wanted them—you would invite them.

Are there no parties to which they are invited, or do they just roam the world like lonely wolves, looking for morsels from the table of those who do not invite them?

Heat and Massage Great Aids to Better Circulation

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

MASSAGE IS not a modern art. It is one of the oldest of all physical treatments for disease and for the exercise of the body. Somewhere about the year 430 B. C. Hippocrates, the first of great physicians, spoke of the treatment of a dislocated shoulder by massage.

Dr. Copeland

Today we have all manner of expensive machines and apparatus for applying vibration and massage. There will always be invented a mechanical contrivance for every need. But in this field physicians are calling a halt in the indiscriminate use of such instruments. It has been found that injuries have been caused by their use.

The most valuable form of massage is that given by the skilled technician, under the direction of the doctor. The greatest benefit may come from properly directed massage. There are many medical and surgical conditions greatly helped by passive or active exercise of this sort.

Massage is a highly developed art. The development of the Swedish school of massage early in the nineteenth century did much to put massage on a firm footing and to awaken the public mind to its benefits.

Massage of the highest type does not consist of aimless unsystematic rubbing and kneading. On the contrary, it means manipulation of a definite and systematic character, done in a scientific manner, each case being treated on its own merits.

By means of the right sort of massage, suppleness and activity of the tissues are aimed for; stiffness and inactivity are overcome; the blood supply and secretions are increased; nerves and lymphatics are stimulated; the muscles and tendons are made to contract more vigorously.

Heat and massage aid greatly in restoring the circulation in some affected part of the body when the muscle fibres need repair. Proper and careful massage of a sprain is often the only way to bring a troublesome part back to a normal condition. But great harm can be done to the torn ligaments by improperly directed massage.

What's in Fashion?

Sunday Night Dresses for Every Night

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—Every night can be Sunday Night in modern fashion. Which means that the fashion of "Sunday Night" frocks has proved so practical and so charming that fashionable women refuse to limit it to Sunday nights.

They wear a Sunday night frock to the theater on Monday night when their escort doesn't dress. On Tuesday night at their own informal bridge. On Wednesday night for the intimate little dinner for two. And on every other night in the week when the event is important but not formal enough for formal evening decolletage.

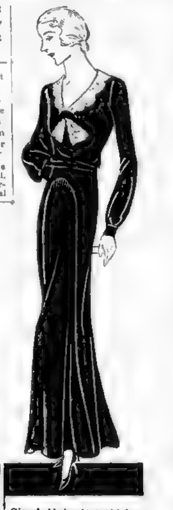
The fashion is practical because there are so many times when you want to look just a little dressed up. The length of these Sunday night dresses makes you look that way—they're worn at lower calf or ankle length. And there's a certain sweep and grace to their lines that adds unbelievably to feminine charm.

Fashionable Materials

Velvet, metal cloth, lace, chiffon and crepe are the materials most in fashion for these dresses. Often they're trimmed with lace—especially the velvet ones. And if there's anything that has more feminine appeal than black velvet trimmed with lace—we don't know what it is!

Some of them are the very simplest sort of thing—like the sketch at the extreme right. Others are much more elaborate in their details—especially in their sleeves.

But they're never so elaborate that they become really formal. You're always sure of being correctly dressed for any informal evening affair when you wear a Sunday Night type dress.



Simple black velvet with lace collar and puffed sleeves

It's in these dresses that you find some of the loveliest of the period adaptations. The young girl likes the dress of Empire inspiration—with high waistline and little puff sleeves.

Then there are dresses that look as though they might have stepped right out of an old Italian portrait of the Renaissance period. Moyen-age sleeves make some of them very decorative.

One-Piece Pajamas

One very new type of Sunday Night frock—intended as an elaborate one-piece pajama with trousers so full they're really just a divided skirt.

We've had three of the most serviceable, practical types of dresses sketched. And these three, with skirts worn a trifle shorter, would be quite as appropriate for the formal afternoon bridge or tea.

Two of them—the one at the upper right and the one at the lower left—show you what charming things can be done with black velvet and lace—which is an outstanding favorite for Sunday Night dresses.

And the third dress would be lovely in a chiffon—if you want to flutter a bit. Or in crepe, if you want the lines of your dress to fall in heavier, more dignified folds.

Proper Way to Ask for Husband

By MRS. BEECKMAN.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

In calling my husband's office and asking to speak with him should I ask to speak with "John" or should I ask to speak with Mr. Brown? He is called John by all the men in the office, and I am acquainted with all of them. HOUSEWIFE.

Dignity [illegible] that you ask to speak to Mr. Brown.

Housewarming Invitations

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been married [illegible] months and I would like to have a housewarming in my new home. Is it proper for me to send out invitations, or should I have one of my friends do so? F.

By all means send your own invitations to your own housewarming. Since you are giving the party you should send the invitations. And there is something about a housewarming invitation that is especially personal, and demands invitations from the hostess and host.

You may send the invitations in the form of notes if you wish, or you may send them on the Mr. and Mrs. card of you and your husband. This invitation looks similar to a tea invitation. That is, below the name for instance, you write the day, the date and the hours:

Sunday, December the third
Four to seven

And above the name you may write the one high-hearted word:

Housewarming

Or, as I say, if you have not these convenient "double" cards you may write a note of invitation.

Wait for an Introduction

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like to be friends with a girl I have seen many times. I haven't any way of meeting her. Would you be so kind as to advise me of a way of becoming acquainted with her. MAN.

I know just how you feel about meeting this young lady, and I wish I could wave a good mannered wand and help you to meet this princess. But Mrs. Grundy would be very scornful of both of us, if we did anything so unconventional as allow you to meet the young lady without the usual form of introduction. Have you thoroughly investigated the possibilities of finding a mutual friend who could make the introduction? If this isn't possible I'm [illegible] afraid that you will have to wait for fate to bring you together or wait for an introduction.

Girl Fears He Loves Ex-Sweetheart Best

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you wish a personal answer enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily columns.

Miss Fairfax broadcasts over Station WLEX every evening except Saturday and Sunday at 6:35 p. m.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I met a girl acquaintance about a month ago, who introduced me to her boy friend. I fell in love with him. He came over to see me four or five times and took me to a party. I like him very much. He stopped coming to see me lately. I wonder if he still loves his ex-sweetheart better than me. My mother liked him very much, and always asks me why he doesn't come over any more. Should I call him? PATSY.

Beatrice Fairfax

Dear Patsy: This boy friend seems to be rather unstable, doesn't he? Or maybe he's just shopping around, and at the same time keeping a string on his old girl so he can find his way back at any time. Don't bother about him. If there is no real reason for a call or a letter, just let the matter drop. There's just as good fish in the sea as ever were caught, you know.

Is Three a Crowd?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

An old schoolmate has been coming to visit me from a distant city for the past two years. We were very congenial and got along very well together. A girl friend suggested going with me to a concert one evening. It was an out-of-door affair and [illegible] to see. Later the schoolmate asked to take me and I told him that my girl friend was coming too. He [illegible] to mind and we all went together, including my [illegible] brother. I had a date with my friend the next day and [illegible] seem to mind the way it was turned out, but I haven't seen him since. Friends tell me it was wrong to take the extra people, that men don't like three parties. I have a chance to visit in the city where he lives. Would it be right to accept the invitation? INDEPENDENT.

Dear Independent:

You will see that space makes it necessary to cut a good deal of your letter, the chief concern of which is that you and your old schoolmate who seem to be mutually attracted are likely to drift apart owing to some slight misunderstanding about including others in an engagement. It would be quite proper for you to pay the visit about which you speak; indeed I should think you'd like to go, if for no other reason than to discover what really happened to bring about the change in the young man's sentiments—if changed they are.

Not that I mean to speak ill of the dead—" and with that swift change of mood which lately had characterized her, tears sprang to Mrs. Gardner's eyes and her lips quivered.

"Don't be upset, mother. You were always wonderful to dad. You've nothing to blame yourself with." Reserved herself, Grace's facile emotion embarrassed Wilda. "Of course there's the $25,000 insurance [illegible]"

"There'll be a lot more than that when the lawyers get through dickering. They do it on purpose, so as to run the fee up high. But what do we care if we can get out of this place and—"

But he liked me to stay home, and sit quiet while he read his evening paper and then dozed off in that maple rocker there—oh! I'm not blaming him or anybody—but I'm nearly forty-five now, Wilda—my wings have been clipped for all those years—the best years, too, that can never come back—I'm still in the rut—and if—if I want to see life at all, to do the things I've always longed to do, I'll have to do them quick, Wilda—"

"Why, mother! I never dreamed—"

"You wouldn't. I've tried to smother it down, oh, many's the time—to make up my mind to—what's the expression?—grow old gracefully. Your father wanted me sober and sedate and stay-at-home. That was his one idea of women. He was 18 years older than me and he kept me right in a groove from the day we married. Oh! I'm wicked to talk like this—it isn't that I bear any grudges, dear—but it was hard, just the same, on a young woman! And now—now I'm free to go—after the best years have slipped away—" and Grace Gardner, to her daughter's dismay, suddenly broke down into weeping.

"Mother! Gracie! For heaven's sake!" Disturbing yet illuminating passages from Freud and the more modern psychoanalysts rushed through Wilda's mind, pregnant with similar cases of "repression." "Stop crying, darling. You've got me. Don't I amount to anything?"

Paying Extra Dividends Is Helping Trade

Many Corporations Show Liberality; Scramble for Goods Near?

By B. C. FORBES

B C Forbes

New York, Nov. 24. Christmas trade will be helped by the payment of not a few extra dividends next month. This column recently recommended such action by all corporations financially able to do so. Stockholders are no longer confined to wealthy men and women. Three out of every five families in America now own stocks—and, as a matter of fact, there has been a very notable increase in the total during the current year. Therefore when extra dividends are distributed, they reach a very large number of pockets, many of them of only modest means.

Payment of extra Christmas dividends cannot fail to encourage buying. That is what is needed more than anything else at this time. Stagnation can be cured only by activity, by demand. Demand is much more likely to be stimulated by paying out dividends than by keeping the money in needlessly large corporate reserves.

Among corporations that have recently taken more generous dividend action are:

Coca-Cola Bottling 10 per cent stock.

Sears-Roebuck 1 per cent stock.

Eastman Kodak 75 cents extra.

United Biscuit increase from 40 cents to 50 cents quarterly.

National Dairy Products increase from 50 cents to 65 cents quarterly.

Cincinnati New Orleans & Texas Pacific, $30 extra.

United States [illegible] 30 cents extra.

American Power and Light 10 per cent extra stock.

Atlantic Refining 25 cents extra.

Jewel Tea $1 extra.

Great Northern Iron Ore [illegible] cents extra.

Chicago Rivet & Machine [illegible] cents extra.

Sherwin-Williams [illegible] cents extra.

Universal [illegible] initial [illegible] cents extra.

Chicago Great Western [illegible] first preferred [illegible] 1919.

American Cash [illegible] tion 15 cents extra.

Essex $2 extra.

South Bend [illegible] cents extra.

McWilliams Dredging 100 per cent stock.

Allegheny Steel [illegible] cents extra.

Package Machine $1 extra.

City Investing [illegible] per cent stock.

Standard Oil of Kentucky [illegible] cents extra.

F & W Grand Silver Stores 1 per cent extra.

Atlantic Coast Line $1.50 extra.

Mayflower Associates 1 per cent special.

D Appleton [illegible] extra.

President A P Sloan of General Motors announcing [illegible] payment of the full regular dividend made the sensible statement to stockholders:

"In periods of sub-normal industrial activity, a dividend disbursement, representing a percentage of total earnings higher than usual, is entirely proper."

That [illegible] were running [illegible] to get pre-Christmas [illegible] moment [illegible] aired was [illegible] column. [illegible] Batten Barton Durstine & Osborn [illegible] agency:

"One big store has $190,000 less stock than a year ago. Several of the buyers have just returned from New York and report a dangerous shortage of good merchandise available for immediate shipment. The president said, 'I am worried. I fear we have missed the boat. It is going to be a scramble to get Christmas merchandise.'

"Another store put on a sale of handbags. The stock on hand was quickly exhausted and they wired for more. Never before have they failed to get all the bags they wanted by express next day. The maker wired that it would take from three weeks to a month to make delivery.

"The president of a third store said, 'Today we cannot get common ordinary cotton sheets for immediate delivery, a condition which has never before existed in the retail business.'

"One of the important New York department stores held the biggest summer fur sale in its history last August. It bought sparingly for summer in general merchandise, went back for more, couldn't get any, and had to get in fall goods early, in order to have anything to sell."

Let these warnings sink in.

PSYCHOLOGY OF WALL STREET PUZZLING

By FRANK H. MELOON

The psychology of Wall Street is evidently puzzling even to those who have studied it for many years. Thus one finds Alexander Dana Noyes, author and one-time Harvard economics lecturer, saying:

"The stock exchange is possibly the only place in the world where customers are discouraged if goods are offered to them at bargain prices."

* * *

There are not lacking signs that many of the intelligensia directing the purse strings of corporations are hastening to take advantage of the buying opportunities afforded by current low prices of needed raw materials. And the "Buy Now. Why Wait?" slogan is being voiced by an increasingly large chorus of the general public.

* * *

President Walter S. Gifford of American Telephone will return to the city of his birth tonight to speak in Salem on "Fulfilling the Prophecy of Alexander Graham Bell." We doubt if the Edinburgh inventor of the telephone was a sufficiently good prophet to tell which of his inventions would achieve the greatest prominence. When Bell, while a professor at Boston University, invented the graphophone in 1887, he certainly started an important industry.

Walter S. Gifford

* * *

The name of the photophone, invented by Bell, is apt to be associated with the modern "telephoto," but in reality it is an instrument for communicating sounds by the agency of a beam of light.

* * *

Watson Washburn, assistant attorney-general in charge of the Bureau of Securities, New York, states that stock swindles so far this year have cost American people $500,000,000. This compares with over a billion dollars in 1928 and 1929. Mr. Washburn finds the reduction due to general depression.

* * *

There are to be found those who [illegible] that the press, public utility bodies' activities and Better Business Bureau influences played the major part in cutting down the profits of the stock swindlers. Education of the buying public through these agencies has been proceeding with enormous strides in the past few years. Its effect is at last plainly evident.

* * *

The proposal of Connecticut secession from New England did not arouse any great amount of enthusiasm. Some people, by the way, are unaware that one financial lineup of the country places a part of Connecticut outside New England. That is Fairfield county, which is in the New York Federal Reserve Bank district, just why no one knows.

* * *

Headline in a Sunday newspaper read: "Bank of Murphy, N. C., Did Not Open Today." It would have been a real piece of news if any bank at all was opened on Sunday.

* * *

Relative to commodity prices, Harvard Economic Society says:

"The decline of commodity prices, checked during the summer mainly by seasonal influences and the drouth, was resumed after mid-September. Recently there has been an increasing disparity of movement among individual commodities, marked weakness being confined almost entirely to agricultural products.

"While neither our sensitive index nor other price indexes present indication of an early upturn, it is probably safe to look for stabilization of wholesale prices within a few months, but recovery in such prices seems unlikely before improvement in business volumes occurs."

Cerro de Pasco's Loss Found Small

Lima, Peru, cable says thus far property loss at Cerro de Pasco mines from labor troubles is relatively small. Drawing of furnaces and stoppage of all operations, both at mines and on company's large grazing estates, represents operating and incidental loss of between $500,000 and $1,000,000. Central Railway, owned by Peruvian Corp. of London, also will suffer heavy losses unless operations are soon resumed. Some 15,000 Peruvian workmen are affected. Hope for restoration of tranquility now rests in government's adopting energetic attitude toward labor agitators and expelling them from country.

Katanga Copper Officials Silent

F. Pisart and Camille Gutt, executives of the Union Miniere du Haut Katanga mine in Belgian Congo, who arrived in the United States several weeks ago to confer with the American metal executives on the question of curtailing world copper production, sailed aboard the Majestic. Neither would comment upon the results of their labors here.

Federal Commission to Aid Oils Urged

In letter to E. B. Reeser, president of American Petroleum Institute, James G. Stanley, former director and general counsel of Continental Oil Co., and now president of Plaza Investment Co., says control of oil production and elimination of economic waste resultant from competitive drilling and drainage estimated at over $4,000,000,000 in last 20 years can be effected. He would set up federal commission along lines similar to Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate pipe-line building and operations.

Associated Gas & Electric system for 12 months ended Oct. 31 reports net income of $18,112,933 after taxes, depreciation, interest, dividends of underlying companies, etc., against $12,002,931 in the preceding 12 months. Gross earnings, including other income, totaled $110,385,563, against $80,606,472.

Associated Gas survey indicates electric light and power industry is to make new high record of gross revenues this year, gain thus far in 1930 being estimated at between 3 per cent and 4 per cent over record-breaking total of 1929.

Brokers Approve Instalment Plan

Current business depression has demonstrated that instalment selling does not constitute a weak spot in American business structure according to bankers who have studied reports of instalment financing companies. Repossessions increased during 1930, but their total is very small compared with total notes outstanding. During first six months of 1930 four largest financing corporations were forced to make repossessions totaling $2,679,000, compared with $1,486,000 in first half of 1929. But overdue notes on June 30, 1930, totaled $1,616,000 or only 0.31 per cent of retail notes receivable, which aggregated $528,040,000. Comparable figures for 1929 were $1,024,000 and $519,575,000.

Nichols Copper Reduces Output

International Harvester's Dividend Announcement

The financial district is commending the statement issued by International Harvester assuring stockholders that the current dividend is to be maintained, although admitting that earnings will be lower than last year. Similar announcements by other companies would be beneficial, according to leading observers.

Continental Can's Improving Position

While Continental Can has not been unusually active, the stock has been well bought recently, with the demand credited to interests who had been active in the stock on several occasions last year. Continental Can has been expanding steadily in recent years and has been improving its position in the industry. Officials of the company have been quoted as being encouraged by the outlook for 1931.

Holiday Fares Lowered by Rail

C. W. Gray, general agent of Chicago & North Western Railway announces that special reduced Christmas holiday fares have been authorized from Chicago to principal California, Oregon and Washington destinations, covering both one-way and round trip journeys.

To California, regular one way fare plus 50 cents will cover standard first class transportation if same route is used in both directions, a saving of 50 per cent for portion of trip beyond Chicago, or giving adjustment to corresponding charges from Boston, etc., about 27 per cent reduction in total first class transportation charges from New England. If diverse route selected for return trip between Pacific Coast and Chicago, adjusted saving to New England travelers will approximate 15 per cent.

Baldwin's Payment Is as Expected

Declaration by Baldwin Locomotive Works of usual semi-annual dividends on preferred and common stocks was in line with expectations as Baldwin will make a better showing this year than for several years past. Although dividends were declared out of undivided profits, as is company's usual practice, this year they were earned.

For several years earnings have fallen short of total dividend requirements, and they have been paid out of accumulated surplus, but this year will see a net addition to surplus account from earnings, subject to adjustments.

Baldwin has paid dividends on its preferred at rate of $7 yearly since inception of the company in 1911. The common stock, which also had a par value of $100, was placed on $2 annual basis, which was paid to and including 1914, but with sharp drop in business at outbreak of the World War dividends on the common were passed in 1915 and were not resumed until last half of 1919, when common stock was put on $7 annual basis, same rate as paid on preferred.

NOTABLES ARE PICKED TO LEAD GREAT BANK

New York, Nov. 24—Besides J. Herbert Case, selected to head the proposed merger of the Manufacturers Trust, Public National Bank & Trust, International Trust and Bank of United States, several notable financiers are picked as leaders.

Members of the board of directors of the new bank, which would rank fourth in size among the New York banks, is expected to include George W. Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Co.; Walter E. Frew, chairman of the board of the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Co.; Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the board of the New York Trust Co.

Mr. Case would become chairman of the board of directors of the new bank and E. Chester Gersten, president of the Public National Bank & Trust Company, would assume the same executive position in the new institution. Nathan S. Jonas and Henry C. Von Elm, now chairman and president respectively of Manufacturers Trust, would remain in important positions.

Deposits of $700,000,000 and resources of nearly $1,000,000,000 would give the bank ranking as the fourth largest in New York. The Chase National is the largest, National City, second and Guaranty Trust Company, third.

Mr. Case has devoted his entire career to banking. A native of Elizabeth, N. J., he obtained his first banking job at 16 as clerk in the City National Bank of Plainfield, N. J., which he organized and was at various times connected with the Plainfield Trust Co., as vice-president, with Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of New York, which he joined in 1910. Two years later he became vice-president of the parent institution, the Farmers Loan & Trust Co.

Upon the entrance of the United States into the World War in 1917, Mr. Case was made deputy governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

In that capacity he had a large part in the administration of the enormous war financing operations of the government. He was promoted from deputy governor to chairman when Mr. McGarrah resigned last May to head the World Bank at Basle, Switzerland.

Encouraging News for Better Times Cited

Encouraging news for better times is contained in the survey of business prospects printed in the Nov. 26 issue of the Financial World, leading investment weekly published by Louis Guenther.

"Comparative freedom from serious industrial disputes marks an important difference in the present business depression from those of former years and should be an important factor in aiding recovery," reads the Financial World article.

"Adherence of the country to its high standard of living is also a very favorable factor, and although buying during the past year has been below what could be regarded as normal, the very maintenance of those high standards is an indication that a substantial amount of purchasing power will be released upon a resumption of the upward trend by general business.

"Recent improvement in copper prices and concerted efforts toward stability in steel prices are important in themselves, but may also prove to be very favorable psychological factors. Examination of conditions in 1921 discloses the fact that a rise of steel and copper prices marked the beginning of the definite upward trend of general business as well as of security prices.

"Good news continues to come from the automobile industry, which in recent weeks has been showing less than the usual seasonal declines in production. Latest figures, moreover, reflect a return to regular production schedules of a number of companies in a week when there is normally a sharp seasonal decline in output. Abnormally low stocks of cars in the hands of dealers account for a substantial part of the incentive to step up production.

"October figures on foreign trade, while not showing gains as large as are normally experienced at this time of year, disclose the third consecutive monthly increase in exports and the second consecutive increase in imports. New construction and freight car loadings have recently shown declines but these developments are in line with seasonal expectations, and figures on the latter factor are for a week which included election day.

"Little gain in the level of general industrial activity can be expected during the balance of the year, but January should see marked signs of improvement which, in turn, should be accelerated with the coming of spring."

SINCLAIR CUTS ITS DIVIDEND

New York, Nov. 24 (INS)—Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation today declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock.

The company issued the following statement explaining its action:

"The company this year will do the largest volume of business in its history. General conditions and oversupply as well as underconsumption and low prices for petroleum products have made it impossible to realize satisfactory profits from operations.

"Looking to the future the board believes that it is in the best interests of stockholders to maintain the exceptionally strong position of the corporation by a conservative course at this time.

"It is for these reasons that the forthcoming dividend will be at the rate of 25 cents per share instead of 50 cents, the amount paid in the previous three quarters."

STATE STREET SIDELIGHTS

Market letters of many brokers contain an analysis of the prospects of A. M. Byers, largest makers of pipe for the natural gas industry. Because of the great potential demand for pipe lines, a large group is reported as having been formed to operate in this stock.

Cautious operators point out that accumulation by the "big fellows" is always carried out on a scale down.

State Street, while well satisfied with the recent action of the market, feels that a consolidation movement is to be expected in the next few days.

It is admitted that the steady decline in brokers loans, indicating transfer of shares from speculators to investors, may prove to be a countering influence that will delay this consolidation a day or so.

Low-priced securities are constantly sought out by investors and brokers alike as a means of recouping losses. One Boston house has made a special study of Standard Brands and will recommend its purchase on any technical setback.

They base their recommendation on the condition of the food industry as a whole and on the rapid progress made in efficiently operating the companies merged to create Standard Brands.

* * *

A State st. brokerage house has received an order for about $18,000 worth of stocks from a customer who specifies that only shares selling under $10 are to be purchased.

It is the buyer's opinion that there are many equities selling at prices which, if bought now, should show excellent profits at the end of two years. At the same time he is reconciled to the possible loss of a great part of his principal.

NARROW PRICE CHANGES IN BOSTON

Prices were slightly lower in dull trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Changes for the most part were confined to a narrow range. Sullivan Machine registered the major decline, dropping over a point to a new 1930 low.

Point losses were recorded for New England Telephone, Eastern Steamship and Boston Elevated first preferred. Swift International dipped slightly over a point.

Utility Equities preferred gained over a point while Libby, McNeill & Libby and Anaconda showed fractional gains.

Minor losses were shown for Nash, Amoskeag, General Electric, General Capital, Copper Range, American Telephone and Amoskeag.

That the American Writing Paper management is jealous of the company's favorable working capital position, and is determined to keep it strong, is the deduction to be drawn from passing of the preferred dividend.

The company earned its preferred dividends at the $4 annual rate in the first and second quarters; the third quarter showed a loss after charges, and October a moderate profit. For the ten months to Oct. 31 profit after charges was $2[illegible],989, compared with which preferred dividend requirements were about $297,[illegible].

The fourth quarter dividend of $1 on 89,266 shares of preferred could have been declared without encroaching seriously upon the $3,300,000 of net quick assets, but this would hardly have been conservative practice in a depression year for a company reorganized only three years ago.

NEW DIVIDENDS ARE ORDERED

New England Power Association declared regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on common stock, payable January 15 to stock of record December 31, also regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 per share on preferred stock and 50 cents per share on $2 dividend preferred stock, both payable January 2 to stock of record December 10.

Eastern Manufacturing Co. declared regular quarterly preferred dividend of 87½ cents a share, payable January 1 to stock of record December 10.

General Gas & Electric Corp. declared the regular quarterly dividend of 7½ cents on common A and B, also $1.75 on preferred A and $2 on preferred B stocks, all payable January 2 to stock of record November 29.

New England Gas & Electric Association declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.37½ per share on all series of $5.50 dividend preferred stock, payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Nov. 28.

Welch Grape Juice declared extra dividend of 25 cents on the common and regular quarterly dividends of 25 cents on the common and $1.75 on the preferred, all payable Nov. 29 to stock of record Nov. 15.

Sterling Securities Corp. has declared the regular quarterly dividends of 30 cents on preferred and 75 cents on $3 first preferred stocks, both payable Dec. 1. Payment is subject to stockholders' action at special meeting Nov. 24, 1930.

Peoples Drug Stores, Inc., declared regular quarterly dividends of 25 cents on the common and $1.62½ on the preferred. The common dividend is payable Jan 2 and the preferred Dec. 15.

Thatcher Manufacturing Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents on common, payable Jan 2.

West Penn Electric Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the class "A" stock, payable Dec 31.

$30,000,000 Gold Is Held in Brazil

Financiers estimate over $30,000,000 at current exchange rate is being held at Rio de Janeiro by National City Bank, Royal Bank of Canada, and Canadian Bank of Commerce for shipment to New York and London home offices when ban is lifted on exportation of gold. Mario Brant, president of Bank of Brazil, revealed banks will be allowed to operate in foreign exchanges within week with only slight restrictions.

Average Price of Oil Is Unchanged

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Average price of crude petroleum at 10 producing fields was unchanged last week from the previous week at $1.245 a barrel, according to Oil, Paint & Drug Reporter. The average for the corresponding period last year was $1.652 a barrel. Gasoline at the refineries also was unchanged last week from the previous week at 5.62 cents a gallon at four principal refining centers.

'SANTA CLAUS' NEWS AIDS MERCHANDISING ISSUES

New York, Nov. 24—The stock market heard that Santa Claus would be in business at the old stand again this year, and merchandising shares were bid up 1 to 3 points in Wall st.

The market was feeble and spiritless during the early hours of trading, several issues selling off temporarily 1 to 3 points, but a gradual upturn in the afternoon developed into a brisk advance in the mail order and store stocks in the final transactions. Total sales were only 1,600,000 shares, but the list closed firm.

STORES ISSUES UP

Woolworth, Sears Roebuck, and Macy gained about 3 points. Montgomery Ward 2, Hahn and May Department Stores gained about a point. Sattuck gained 2 points and Kroger Grocery 1.

Such issues as U. S. Steel, American Can, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Electric Power & Light, Air Reduction, and Westinghouse Eelectric closed up a point or more.

International Harvester and Bethlehem lost 1 point, and Firestone lost 5. Allied Chemical regained a 5-point loss.

The rails were distinctly heavy during the morning, and showed little recuperative power.

The morning decline included practically all groups save the coppers, which were virtually neglected.

The market appeared to be awaiting some impelling development. Bulls were somewhat disappointed in the fresh selling pressure encountered at the high levels of the recovery last week, but the belief that there were substantial investment buying orders under the market, and that efforts on the downside would meet with strong opposition, restrained the bears.

The most conspicuous development in the day's corporate news, the reduction of the Sinclair quarterly dividend from 50 to 25 cents, had been expected and had practically no effect upon the market.

It merely accentuated the unsettled conditions in the oil industry, already well understood. It makes a total of $1.75 paid this year.

A report that maximum production allowable under the pro-rata plan in Texas would be cut from 50,000 barrels daily to 680,200 barrels this week provided some encouragement.

TRADE TREND AWAITED.

Wall Street is now awaiting with keen interest the developments in retail trade after the Thanksgiving holiday, when the first signs of the holiday trade usually appear.

The statement made late last week by Silas H. Strawn, chairman of Montgomery Ward, that a change in the trend of buying had already been noted provided the hope that sufficient purchasing might develop to deplete merchants' shelves and cause substantial reordering from wholesalers. This week's business reports will be somewhat warped by the holiday on Thursday.

Most of the weekly analyses of the financial advisory services expressed restrained optimism. The Harvard Economic Society stated that the present low level of certain basic industries—such as foods—indicates that curtailment cannot go much further. There was a tendency in most of the advices, however, to urge caution.

The news that the plan of forming another $1,000,000,000 bank in Wall Street through combination of four of the smaller institutions, had been completed, and that Chairman Case of the Federal Reserve Bank was slated to head the new institution, was regarded as a favorable development.

Credit conditions showed little change, with call money going begging in the outside market at 1 per cent.

LARGE ORDERS ARE AWARDED

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. has obtained an order for 21 sets of set-up gears to be used in seven booster stations on 760-mile gasoline pipe line under construction by Phillips Pipe Line Co., from Texas Panhandle to St. Louis.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. has been awarded contract for 10 265-horsepower gas engines and pumps have been ordered from Byron Jackson and Worthington Pump & Machinery Corp.

Chicago Great Western ordered from Pullman Car & Manufacturing Co. 300 seventy-ton steel hopper bottom coal cars for early delivery.

The Board of Transportation, New York City, has awarded contract for 11,000 tons of steel rails to Bethlehem Steel Corp.

Dividend Passed by Kilburn Mill

New Bedford, Nov. 24—Kilburn Mill passed the quarterly dividend due at this time. The company had been paying dividends of $1 per share quarterly. The company reported for year ended September 27, 1930, loss of $319,159 after depreciation of $100,000.

President Tiffany stated that directors would shortly announce program for reducing capitalization that will give stockholders between $25 and $35 cash a share. The stock has been quoted 36&38.

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, Nov. 24—Cotton futures today closed 1 to 13 points lower. December, 10.74; January, 10.84. New contracts: December, 10.74-76; January, 10.83-85; March, 11.11-12; May, 11.37-38; July, 11.55-56; October, 11.73-75. Spot quiet; middling, 10.85.

"MOP" DENIED STOCK ISSUE

Washington, Nov. 24 (INS)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today dismissed, without prejudice, the application of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, controlled by the Van Sweringen interests, for authority to issue $38,659,000 of common stock.

This action was taken at the request of the road's board of directors.

The stock was to have been sold and the proceeds used in paying accrued dividends on preferred stock. Owing to existing business conditions, however, the board decided it would be unwise at this time to place such a large stock issue on the market.

Eggs at a Record Low in Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 24 (AP)—Eggs for delivery in September sold at wholesale today at 18 cents a dozen, exactly a cent and a half each. This was the lowest price paid for December eggs here since 1880 and one cent a dozen below the previous low price established last week. Butter likewise declined to new low prices. December storage butter sold wholesale at 28⅛ cents a pound.

Wheat Closes Firm in Chicago Market

Chicago, Nov. 24—Wheat today closed firm ⅛-1c a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅛-⅝c advance, oats unchanged to ⅛c up, and provisions unchanged to 15c higher.

DIVIDEND CUT

M. S., Malden—I own 100 shares Packard Motors at higher levels. What do you think of the outlook?

Ans.—We are quite unable to advise on the market position of Packard Motors. Unsatisfactory earnings so far this year have forced directors to put the stock on a 60 cents annual basis, contrasted with the $1 rate maintained on the present stock since issuance in five-for-one split September, 1929. Net income for nine months ended September 30, amounted to $6,680,193, or 45 cents a share, a decline of over 59 per cent from net of $[illegible], or $1.09 a share for corresponding period of 1929. For four months ended December 31, 1929, earnings were 32 cents a share, in the fiscal year ended August 31, 1929, $1.68 a share. The company is a leading maker of automobiles and past record of earnings and dividends is excellent. Under present conditions, however, the stock is a speculation.

LOWER EARNINGS

E. L., Arlington—I own some Western Union on which I have a paper loss. Have you a report of latest earnings?

Ans.—For nine months ended Sept. 30, Western Union Telegraph earned $6.44 a share. Unofficial estimate for full year is $9 a share. This is the poorest report for nine years but covers the dividend by a $1 margin. The company handles over four-fifths of the telegraph service in the United States. Earnings, however, have been adversely affected by the general business depression. Net income in 1929 was equivalent to $15.13 a share, against $15.11 in 1928 and $15.06 in 1927. Dividends in varying amounts have been paid from 1857. Any attempt to forecast future prices would be futile.

EARNINGS DROP

Miss E. N., Lowell—I am a reader of your paper and should like your opinion of International Nickel. I own some of the stock at higher levels.

Ans.—For nine months ended September 30, International Nickel earned 58 cents a share, or 17 cents a share less than dividends for that period. This was a decline of 41 per cent from $1.11 a share in first nine months of 1929. Net income in full year 1929 amounted to $1.47 a share, compared with $1.05 in 1928. Current $1 dividend has been maintained since September, 1929. The previous rate was 20 cents quarterly from December, 1929, following reorganization. Under present conditions the stock is a speculation. We do not care to comment on the market position.

PORT OF BOSTON

Fate of the barge Edith and the tug Murrell, seized with the barge Eagle Hill, on which 153 cases of choice liquors were found and against which confiscation proceedings will be started, will be determined at a conference to be held today.

U. S. Dist.-Atty. Frederick H. Tarr, Collector of Port Willfred W. Lufkin, Collector of Customs Thomas F. Finnegan and former Asst. U. S. Atty. William H. Lewis will gather, today, to decide the status of the other boats on which no liquor was found.

The three boats are tied up at President Roads, while the 18 members of the crew held here for hearing Dec. 8, were allowed to go aboard them.

Atty. Lewis represents the defendants and will appear, today, for the ship owners.

LAUNCH TANKER

With impressive ceremonies planned the big tank steamer Harry Sinclair, owned by the Sinclair Oil Company, will be launched in the presence of distinguished guests at Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp., Quincy, today.

Launching exercises are scheduled to start at 1 o'clock. She will be sponsored by a member of the Sinclair family, it is believed. She is named for one of the children of the owner and is a sister ship to the Virginia Sinclair, named for a daughter. She will be used in transporting oil from Gulf ports to North Atlantic ports.

CURTIS WATCHES

An Atlantic voyager of other days looked back a bit yesterday with a laugh. It was as the 23,884-ton Baltic of the White Star Line was docking at Commonwealth Pier. Charles Pelham Curtis, appearing as young as he did when he was Boston police commissioner, was standing by. He was not sailing, it was brought out, but his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitney Minot, and his three grandchildren were. When Mr. Curtis first sailed the Big Pond—he refused to say how long ago—he went in a 6000 tonner, and that was one of the biggest afloat. He remarked that the three lively little children awaiting at the wharf would see changes as great as if they sailed at his age.

AIDS IDLE

When the Leviathan, the United States Lines, "Queen of the Seas," comes here to drydock at the Navy dry dock, Wednesday, she will aid the unemployment situation to the extent of putting 300 Navy Yard men to work grooming her. She will give 2100 extra working days to this crew. She arrives at New York, Monday afternoon, sets out for here, Tuesday afternoon.

CURB MARKET PRICES MIXED AT CLOSE

New York, Nov. 24—A moderate buying movement in the final hour of a listless session on the Curb Market today failed to retrace all of the declines sustained in earlier dealings. Stocks closed at irregularly low levels.

Utilities showed a heavy tone, although recessions were mainly nominal. Electric Bond & Share was the leader on the late recovery, moving up from its low for a fractional upturn.

Cities Service ruled fractionally lower.

Gulf displayed the best recuperative powers in an irregular oil list, rallying from its low for a net gain of slightly less than a point. Standard of Nebraska was up ⅞, but declines were evidenced in Humble, Standard of Indiana and Standard of Kentucky.

Investment trusts tended generally lower, with Insull leading the decline with a loss of 1½ points. Goldman Sachs was in persistent demand, however, closing slightly higher.

Cheesebrough Manufacturing featured the specialty list with a run-up of almost 5 points. There were a large number of weak spots, however, in which losses ran up to 4 points.

3 COMPANIES' PROFITS GIVEN

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Checker Cab Manufacturing Co. today reported September quarter net profit of $87,024, equal to 23 cents a share, against $817,647, or $2.18 a share, in the third quarter last year.

Coca-Cola International Corp. has September quarter net profit of $660,842, against $454,592 in the September quarter of 1929.

A. P. W. Paper Co. for the quarter ended Sept. 30 had consolidated net profit of $64,123 before federal taxes against $78,850 in the corresponding period last year.

THE LAST MILE -:- By Lewis Allen Browne

HOW THE STORY STARTED

Richard Walters, skilled young mechanic, is madly in love with Ethel Simmons, whom he believes to be almost saint-like. She is, however, quite the opposite, despite her tender years, and is carrying on an affair with wealthy Merton Nissinger. One night at the lake cottage with Ethel, Nissinger tattooed his initial over her heart. Walter meets his reporter friend, Sid Cavanaugh, in a speakeasy where Nissinger is having a drink with them. Nissinger is boasting that he tattoes his initial on all of his "sweeties." How do you do it?" Walters asks.

Novelized by LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE

(From the Play by John Wesley. Copyright 1930.)

CHAPTER 4

"HOW OLD ARE YOU, dear?" asked Viola.

"Listen, I'll bet you could model—perhaps you'll need a year or so, to fill out a little but you have a swell neck and shoulders."

This pleased Ethel. She became rather chummy with Viola and one noon Viola asked her to come to her apartment for luncheon as she didn't have to pose that afternoon.

Ethel was amazed at the luxurious apartment Viola had.

"Gee," she said, "I had no idea you had a swell place like this. I guess models like you make an awful lot of money."

Ethel sighed.

"Even if I had the figure, it wouldn't be any use, my mother would throw 40 fits if she thought I ever posed—she's awfully religious and I've been literally dragged into church work."

"Come on, let me see if you've got the right figure."

Viola took her into the sleeping room. It was more luxuriously furnished than the living room and the bathroom in orchid tiles amazed her.

Ethel began removing her clothes.

Viola nodded.

"Pretty good—I believe you could make the grade right now," she said and Ethel was delighted.

Had Self-Control

Viola Forsaythe, whose right name was Virgie Fogarty, did not give the least hint to Ethel that she had noticed the black letter N over her heart, but she had.

Ethel would have received a terrible jolt, cool and sophisticated as she was, if she had known that Viola Forsaythe also had a letter N over her heart, and that Mert Nissinger had put it there. Viola always covered that with grease paint when she posed.

"Sure I'll help you," Viola promised, as Ethel was dressing, "but you must help me."

"I'd be awfully glad to do anything."

"Well, my dear, I want you to get awfully well acquainted with Kirk Thurber."

"I never heard of him," Ethel protested.

"He is Mert Nissinger's closest friend."

Ethel never turned a hair.

"I never heard of this Mert Nissinger," she said coldly. She didn't propose to admit anything.

"Be yourself, Ethel—and don't be afraid that I'll blab, but don't hand me that hooey—you know him well enough to let him tattoo his initial over your heart!"

Ethel Simmons prided herself on her self-control, her savor faire, but to have Viola Forsaythe coolly inform her that she knew all about the initial tattooed over her heart was too much for her.

She had no idea that anyone except Mert Nissinger, who put the initial there, Mabel Shelton who had seen it, and herself, knew a thing about it.

"What—whatever are you talking about?" she managed to say.

Viola laughed.

Viola smiled and nodded.

"But say—you've got a nerve to think Mert—Mr. Nissinger put it there, or that I'd let any man do that. It happens to be a mark I got at a sorority initiation."

Viola couldn't very well tell her about the initial N that Nissinger had tattooed over her heart.

"Oh!" Ethel exclaimed, and then, "Viola, I've got to trust you—on account of mother and—and my church friends and everything. I know about Kirk Thurber—I've heard Mert mention him, but I never met him."

Leave Her Flat

"You can, easily enough. He's living down at his cottage now and he's the easiest thing to get acquainted with."

"But why?"

"He wrote me a lot of letters—And—well, he was here once and managed to steal them from me when I was asleep. He's just fool enough not to destroy them, and as he went down to his lake cottage next morning I'm sure he has them there.'"

"Go down and get them back, then."

Viola scowled.

"We had a fight—it's all off."

"He probably said, 'That's out'."

"Worse—he had the nerve to tell me, as cool as you please, that he was going to marry that snobby Lucile Raleigh."

"They all do. Mert is going to marry Nina Paxton, but that's all right with us, just the same. Those men always marry like that. What do you expect?"

"Well, listen to the sweet little kiddie giving me sophisticated advice. But it happens that if Kirk marries it will leave me flat.

A Threat

"Well, why worry? There are plenty of other rich men."

"That isn't it—I want to use those letters, Ethel."

"Did he promise to marry you—in the letters?"

"Just about—and what he wrote!"

"And you want to make him marry you, is that it?"

"Either that or hand over plenty of money. I can scare a lot of money out of him with a clever lawyer. You can get him crazy about you. Visit him a few times when your friend Mert isn't down at the lake and grab the letters."

"I couldn't do that. Mert would get wise, and I'm crazy about him. Get some boy friend to go down and hunt them up when this Kirk Thurber is in town."

"Too dangerous. You get them for me."

"I wouldn't dare."

"Now, look here, Ethel, I'm desperate. I've figured it all out—you must get them."

"No, I just can't."

"If you don't want everyone to know about that initial he tattooed on you, you better get busy and do that for me."

"But you couldn't—it would ruin me."

"You'll get them for me."

"But if I can't."

"You can. You try. If you try hard enough and fail that won't be your fault, but I'll know whether you try or not."

Ethel Simmons was more frightened over this situation than she dared admit. She gave Viola Forsaythe a solemn promise that she would do her best. But she did not intend to make the least attempt if there was any way to get out of it.

Viola greeted her pleasantly during the next few days, at the school of design, and made no mention of the letters or Kirk Thurber, and then she met her as she was leaving.

"How about it, Ethel?" she asked.

"No luck — I was down twice and he wasn't there."

"He was down yesterday and the night before," Viola told her, eyeing her suspiciously.

"The place was locked. I called. I was going to ask for a drink of water and try and get chummy with him."

Ethel lied.

But even hard-boiled and ever suspicious Viola believed her because she had the most naturally innocent expression imaginable.

"Tough luck, dear — but keep on trying."

Ethel Sick

A few days later she was sick—a touch of ptomaine. This frightened her and she sent a note to Viola, explaining that she was sick but that she would surely keep her promise as soon as she could get out.

Walters called and was upset when Mrs. Simmons told him that Ethel was sick.

He sent over some flowers next day.

Then Viola called. She was desperately in earnest about having Ethel get back those letters and wanted to make sure that the girl wasn't bluffing.

Ethel's mother thought her charming. Viola said she was one of the girls at the school and came to see how Ethel was. Mrs. Simmons took her up to see Ethel, who was so frightened that she turned pale and Viola decided that the girl was really terribly sick.

They chatted for a while and when Viola had an opportunity she whispered to Ethel not to worry.

"But be sure and do what I told you, the moment you are able to be out," she warned.

Ethel promised.

No Appeal

Walters drove over every night to ask how Ethel was getting along. He usually brought flowers or a potted plant.

One day he brought her a volume of religious poems. It was the Saturday half-holiday.

Ethel was downstairs and he was permitted to go in and see her.

Poor Walters was frightened, she seemed so pale and angelic.

He timidly gave her the book, "Pearls of Religious Verse" it was.

"Why, Dick—how perfectly thoughtful of you," Ethel said, as she glanced at the title, "and it's awfully sweet of you—it is an awful nice book, I've always wanted one."

"Gee, I'm sure glad of that, Ethel," he stammered.

Ethel wanted to scream. She wanted to hurl the silly book right at his fool head, she was thinking, sitting there so dumb and so smug, and eating her up with his eyes. His eyes, she thought, wouldn't be so bad if they had any appeal.

He didn't stay long, but promised to come in the next day.

At home Dick's sister was entertaining Sid Cavanaugh.

"What's the matter, didn't the ponies run to suit you?" Sid asked.

"My girl is sick," he muttered, and went up to his room to moon over his little picture of Ethel.

"Who is this wonderful girl of his, Sid?" Cicily asked.

"I don't know. I heard him mention the name 'Ethel,' but that's all—he's sure gone on her, and the funny part is, she's no live one at all, but some pious little church girl, from all I can gather, and Dick used to like his girl friends flappery, peppery and—well, friendly."

"Church girl, eh? He'll get over it. He's been crazy over a dozen different types of girls," Cicily assured him.

Viola Forsaythe was becoming rather desperate. It was quite true that Kirk Thurber had thrown her over.

She decided that because of Ethel's sickness she couldn't hope for any help there, and unless Ethel soon recovered she would have to get busy herself.

Ethel hadn't been half as ill as she pretended, except in mind. Fear that Viola would make good her threats and tell all she knew about her had kept her worried.

How Ethel fared in her quest and the exciting finish is told in tomorrow's installment.

Legion Disavows Tear Gas Bombing

Columbus, O., Nov. 24 (AP)—The executive committee of the American Legion of Ohio was on record today in criticism of the tear gas bombing of a grocery store at St. Clairsville, O., Armistice Day. The store was invaded and bombed by Legionnaires after its manager failed to close for the holiday.

In a resolution, the committee said the attack was "an uncalled-for demonstration which reflected on the spirit and principles of the Legion."

THE STOCKS AND THE PILLORY were the first instruments for punishment established by the Boston colonists. The pillory, shown here, was set up in State st., in the early 1700s. The first pillory was set up near Change ave., opposite the now Exchange Building. Afterwards it was in front of the now Brazer's Building, 27 State st. Afterwards it was removed to the West st. gate of the Common. In 1753 a woman stood for an hour in the pillory amid the jeers of the multitude. Women offenders were frequently punished in this way. The pillory was used up to 1810 or thereabouts. TOMORROW—Old Worcester Depot.

Work on New Plane Runway Under Way at Airport

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Construction of the new east-west runway at Boston Municipal Airport began today when a "sand sucker" tackled the job of pumping dirt from the harbor bed into the 66-acre plot on the south-eastern end of the airport.

Work will be continued night and day until the entire area is filled, and after being allowed to settle all winter, the plot will be ready for levelling and cindering in the spring.

Park Commissioner William P. Long stated today that the new runway plus a few other improvements, such as a marking circle in thet middle of the field, will bring an A-1-A rating to the airport next year.

This rating is the highest awarded by the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce, and means that the airport is equipped for every type of service and night flying lighting is of the best.

Construction of a seaplane base on the southern end of the port will begin as soon as the plans are approved by the department of public works at the State House. Mayor Curley has declared that $20,000 will be spent to give the airport its proper facilities for the handling of seaplanes and amphibians.

The runway will eliminate the somewhat hazardous westward take-off over the lower end of East Boston, with its thickly settled tenement and business districts.

Best Brains at Work

All Seek Unemployment Solution

Read your newspapers carefully today, or any day, and you will find that the best brains of the country are dedicated to the single purpose of how business can be stimulated and unemployment decreased.

Mr. Redfield Proctor tells the New England Council, composed largely of manufacturers, financiers and commercial tradesmen, that continuous employment is the soundest remedy for unemployment.

In other words, put men to work and thus equip them with a buying power to consume the products of themselves and workers in other trades.

Mayor Curley suggests to President Hoover that the national government institute a billion-dollar development of the Mississippi River, which would be a nation-wide stimulus to employment.

Highway experts suggest to Commissioner Arthur Woods that $375,000,000 be allocated to construction of transcontinental highways, the States' appropriations making $750,000,000 available for that sensible purpose.

Dr. John B. Andrews says to the Tufts College Department of Economics that a reservoir fund should be established by employers in the season of prosperity in order to guard against prospective idleness in periods of depression. It is a thoughtful outlook into the future, but we need a reservoir for the unemployment that exists NOW.

Governor-elect Joseph B. Ely, from whom we shall expect much in his inaugural recommendations, will suggest to the Governors' Conference sponsored by Governor Roosevelt of New York, that the manufacture of beer be permitted in order that the breweries may pay good wages to idle men and license fees and taxes to the government. Unfortunately, this favor must be begged from a Congress that seems yet responsive to the Anti-Saloon League.

Mr. Silas Strawn, who has given distinguished and patriotic service to his country, tells his Boston audience that business must pull itself up by the bootstraps; that government aid is neither advisable nor essential. His theory cannot stand the acid test of history and experience. Government is in business, in a hundred different ways, but even if it were not it still is confronted with the obligation of promoting the welfare of its people, whether they be capitalists or unemployed, by every logical means at its disposal.

The national and State governments, which took billions of dollars from their people in excess taxation to reduce the national and State debts in the times of plenty must spend billions now for the succor of those same people.

The money would have to be spent through the poor departments in charity relief. Men do not want to beg. They would rather work. The governments, therefore, should spend this money not in doles unsatisfactory to independent American men and women, but in productive enterprises which will enrich their country, such as new highways, public buildings and expansion of the natural resources.

With all these brains working to the same purpose in a country of tremendous inherent wealth we can expect with all optimism that the tide will turn in the right direction.

Blake Works Fast

Veterans' Bureau Here Is Model

The expedition with which the disability claims of World War veterans is being handled by the Boston office of the Veterans' Bureau is very much to its credit. Lieutenant-Colonel William J. Blake is evidently one of those rare individuals who still remember the solemn pledges made to the youth of the country when they were taken from their homes by the government to face the perils of the battlefield.

It was quite easy for our 100 per cent patrioteers and professional back-slappers to make generous promises.

And it was quite easy for too many of them to forget to give the veterans their jobs back or to manifest any concern whatsoever in the welfare of the maimed and hurt who bore the bruises of the war.

By the redemption of these promises the government is fulfilling a sacred obligation which is that just due of the veterans.

Moreover, it relieves the rancors of the outraged veterans whose service made them see life in its real essentials and whose return caused them to see how quickly ingratitude could displace the thin veneer of affable condescension.

Public Has Right to Know

The special State Commissioners appointed to investigate sports activities in Massachusetts have begun a series of private sessions in which they are "interviewing" witnesses behind closed doors.

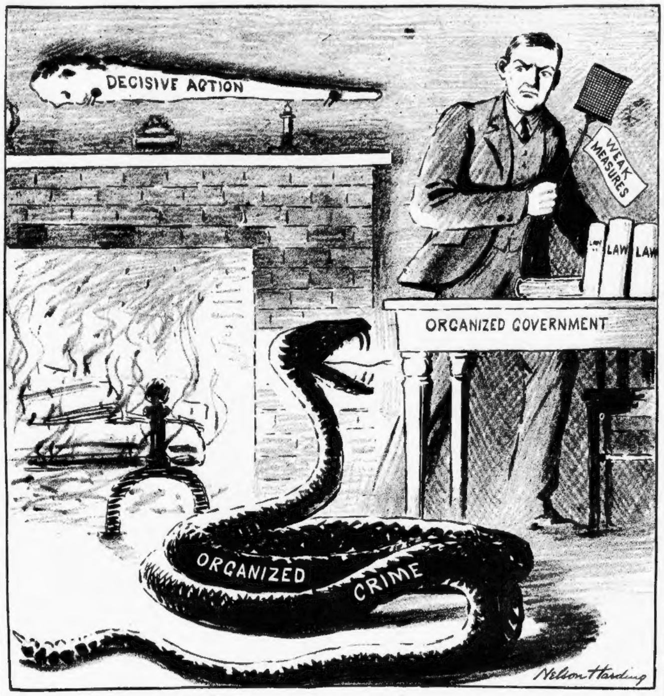
Open these doors.

This is a public business, not a private sewing circle.

If these hearings are producing anything of interest or importance, or not, the public has the right to know.

FLY SWATTER OR BIG STICK

By NELSON HARDING



Like the serpent in the fable
Lawlessness has been permitted
To lie basking on the hearthstone
Where it has been tolerated.

While it greatly thrived and flourished
Growing larger, waxing stronger,
Until now its deadly menace
Must be met with drastic action.

Listen, World!—Prayer

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I Believe We Need to Pray

I BELIEVE in prayer. I believe that we need to pray exactly as we need to eat or sleep . . . that we have needs which only prayer can answer . . . and that the important part of our life perishes if those needs are not answered. But I have found that they can be answered—by prayer.

Elsie Robinson

I am not thinking of prayer as a religious exercise. I am thinking of it as a practical part of the working program of everyday people . . . taxicab drivers, waitresses, automobile salesmen, housewives, stenographers, bookkeepers, clerks. Tired people. Worried people. Stupid, cross people. People who want more beauty and inspiration than their monotonous chores provide . . . who need more power and peace and joy than they're getting.

I believe in prayer for people like that. I know that it will help them for I use it myself and it works. This is how I use it.

I pray to God. I do not know what God is. But I do know that there is more than man in this world, and man's ignorance and confusion. I know that I am surrounded by beauty and mystery and energy . . . and that, above our little human squabble, loom law and order. And I know that these sustain and serve life. It is not necessary that I understand this enveloping mystery. It does not matter whether I call it "God" or some other name. All that matters is that I do call . . . and accept the answer.

For that source does answer. All creatures are fed, according to their nature. The gnat gets what it needs. The grass gets what it needs. The bird gets what it needs. They do not have to understand God to get what they need. They do not have to be religious. They need . . . they ask . . . they get—that is all. If their need is served, according to their nature, why should not my need be served according to my nature?

I do need. I need desperately. I am not any more sufficient unto myself than the bird is sufficient unto itself. I have all the needs of a bird—and infinitely more. The bird needs food and flight and a nest. So does my body! But so does my soul! And human beings cannot give me what my soul needs. We are all equally bewildered. I must go, for my supply, to the place where the bird goes. I must go to Life. I must go to "God." And why should I not go? Or why should I go doubting? If "God" made my body he also made my soul. If "God" takes care of wings and roots, why should he not also take care of those higher needs which are as much a part of my life as roots are part of grass? So I pray—

I do not wait until I am "feeling religious" to pray. I do not wait until I can kneel or go into a church. I ask for what I need when I need it. I ask as I go—when I'm washing dishes or darning socks, when I am cutting chaparral for a survey line, when I am dressing for a party, when I am shopping and my feet hurt, when I am working on a business deal . . . or just sitting stranded in some dark corner, lonely as flotsam. Whatever I'm doing, whenever I need, I ask. Something like this—

"God, I'm cross today. I feel tired. Through. Nothing seems worth while. Somehow I've lost contact with life. And yet I suppose I must go on. Help me! Help me get back. Make me love life again. Make me love people again. Make me love myself again. Give me eagerness and curiosity and generosity. Give me the hunger to want and the courage to take all that life may hold. Help me—God!"

I pray like that. And when I pray like that, AND MEAN WHAT I SAY, it works. I do not know how it works. Neither does the grass know how the sap within it works. But the sap rises and the grass grows. And the sap rises in my soul and I am filled with eagerness and delight and power and tenderness—though a little while ago I was empty and cold. Does God send it? And what is God? What does it matter so long as the sap rises?

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

The Diary of a Modern Pepys

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early to my desk to do my chore and Carter Pannill, whose name strikes me as splendid for a southern colonel in a war play, called and among other things told of a neighbor in Venezuela who is father of 54 children.

So with my wife to Allen street to shop for andirons and afterward aprowl through dress shops in Division street and loitering before windows in Chinatown nearby, and it seems to me Chinese are more considerate of strangers than folk in other foreign quarter.

Peg and Roy Howard to dine and news their son Jack killed a moose in Canada. They to a first night and we to "The Greeks Had a Word for It," a jovially common piece about Follies courtesans on the make, and saw Will James, cowboy artist writer, there. Home late foraging in the ice box for cottage cheese.

Julius Tannen may be depended upon to offer a diverting dido to parties around town. Recently Thyra Winslow had a gathering of literati and inadvertently neglected to invite Tannen. He appeared during the evening munching a chicken sandwich, gave the amazed and sober faced butler a small tip, presented Miss Winslow with a copy of "Ex-Hostess" and gravely departed.

Jack Hobby, who separates wheat from chaff at the entrance of the Palm Beach Coconut Grove, has arrived in America from Paris for the winter season. Hobby has been an official greeter in almost all important hotels here and on the continent. He knows the favorite dish of every notable in the Social Register.

Incidentally the American triumph of Maurice Chevalier has fostered an intense spasm of jealousy among theatrical contemporaries in Paris. Once the idol, there are now boos in his audiences. Success, the successful tell me, is like that.

Nearly every social club in town of consequence has the biggest list posted for non-payment of dues in history.

Recently I heaved a half-sick sigh for a club without rules or dues, thinking that somewhat a very original idea. So far I have been notified of 59, and returns are not all in. And the remarks need not be funny on my account.

She appeared in one of the fashionable grills on a crowded night last week—a flaming red haired gasp of loveliness. She might have been a dainty sprite from a story book in a light blue green gown the color of her eyes. She danced but once and neither smoked nor shared a potion from her escort's silver flask. Certainly she was the cynosure of all eyes. I happened to be at the exit while her escort was hunting for his car. A starter sidled up to her and said half aloud: "Hello Kitty, playing the swells tonight?" She gave him a sly but warning glance and was soon bowling away. I am still wondering!

Another night in the old black and white room of uptown Bustanoby's I sat next to a party of six. A gentleman rose to dance and left a bejeweled gold cigarette case on the table. It so happened my eyes fell upon one of the ladies when she put it into an evening bag. I presumed, of course, it was a gesture of protection. But when the gentleman missed the case and a hunt was begun, the lady helped in the search, murmuring sympathy. Many times I have seen her since and once she was among guests at a respectable dinner party I attended. Again I wonder if she is a kleptomaniac or just plain thief!

New York is full of remarkable people. Only this morning I met a gentleman who pronounced dais with perfect assurance.

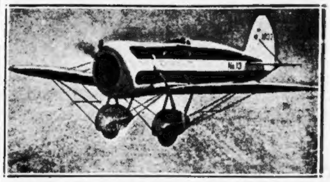
Here's the Speed Champion

Queer Looking, But It Goes



CAPTAIN FRANK HAWKS, CHAMPION AMERICAN AIR PILOT OF TODAY, IN HIS PLANE THAT BREAKS RECORD

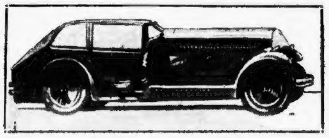
In this machine Captain Frank Hawks, American champion speed flier, goes over 200 miles per hour.

It is a queer looking vehicle, but it MAKES and BREAKS records, thanks to its engine, and, above all, thanks to the engine at work in the brain of Captain Hawks.

Who would have thought, a few years ago, that a man would actually fly in a machine like this from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean in twelve hours?

Who can tell what the high speed ships of the future will be like?

And, for that matter, who can tell what automobiles, also capable of two hundred miles an hour already, will be like in years to come, with special roads, and no speed limits?



A NEW AUTOMOBILE TYPE

Here is a sample of the latest automobile, with more engine than body. It is built in England where they make their automobiles by hand, slowly, and can try all kinds of new things.

They have one excellent idea in this automobile, of great power and speed, and that is a ROOF OF GLASS, that will not shatter, all the rest of the glass being of the same kind.

The ordinary closed car shuts in the driver and passengers and shuts OUT the beauty of sky and clouds.

A man in a closed car traveling through beautiful country is like a man walking in a magnificent cathedral with his umbrella up.

In this new type of car you look up through the glass roof at the clouds by day or the stars at night, and the sun can shine down on you.

Our grandchildren will go in their automobiles from two to three hundred miles an hour along roads unobstructed, with no speed limit, at least five hundred feet wide.

In the air they will go five hundred miles an hour and faster.

Let us hope their errands will be worthy of their speed.

THE GOVERNMENT of the United States returns from a tour of the country to Methodist headquarters, and is preparing his annual message to Congress, one of his best, we are told, that Rev. Clarence True Wilson ever wrote.

THOSE CALIFORNIA grape growers could have saved themselves a lot of bother if they had just kept on selling their juice in the old familiar way without dragging in that controversial word "concentrate," whose only accomplishment up to date has been to concentrate the attention of the drys on something they hadn't been looking at.
